Senate Committee Votes 10 to 8 Against Roosevelt Measure for Court Reform

All Amendments, Except Few Clarifying Changes, Rejected by Opposition Majority — Seven Democrats Vote Adversely.

BILL'S PROSPECTS

Ashurst Says Retirement of Van Devanter Promotes Possibility of Passage of Reform Bill.

Washington, May 18 (AP)—The Senate Judiciary Committee voted 10 to 8 today to report the Roosevelt court bill adversely to the Senate.

First members to emerge from the committee session said all amendments, except a few clarifying changes, were rejected by the dominant opposition majority.

The vote, taken in executive session shortly after announcement of the retirement of Justice Van Devanter, came out just as it had been forecast for more than a week.

For almost two hours, the committee voted down compromise after compromise.

Senator Borah (R., Ida.), one of the leading foes of the President's bill, stepped out of the committee room to tell newspapermen:

"Ten to eight adversely."

Line-up Forecast

The line-up on the final vote, Borah said, was just as it had been forecast—with seven Democrats and three Republicans opposing the presidential measure to increase the size of the Supreme Court.

Seven Democrats and Senator Norris, the lone Independent, voted for the bill.

Chairman Ashurst (D., Ariz.) told reporters who jammed into the smoky committee room that the long series of amendments and compromise proposals had been rejected in rapid succession before the President's bill was put to a vote.

Those voting to report the President's bill favorably, he said, were Senators Neely, Logan, Dietrich, McGill, Pittman, Hughes, Norris and Ashurst.

Those against were Senators King, McCarran, Van Nuys, Hatch, Burke, Connally, O'Mahoney, Borah, Austin and Steiwer.

After Justice Van Devanter had announced his retirement, effective June 2, Chairman Ashurst (D., Ariz.) told newspapermen the retirement "immensely promotes" the prospects for passage of the court measure. On the other hand an opposition leader — Senator Wheeler, (D., Mont.)—quickly demanded withdrawal of the President's plan.

He said "there is absolutely no excuse whatever for going ahead."

Word of Van Devanter's retirecapitol. Excited Senators called each other to talk it over and discuss the possible effect on the bitter court bill controversy.

There was little prospect that it would immediately affect the vote in the judiciary committee, where sentiment was thoroughly crystallized. But some Senators felt it would have tremendous long range effect on the measure.

Subway Worker Burned

New York, May 19 (AP)—Barney Bronieska, 27, subway signal maintenance worker, received second and third degree burns of the face, hands, and body today in a third rail accident in the city's independent subway system at the Fourth street station today. Bronieska, who lives at 127 Guernsey street, Brooklyn, was rushed to St. Vincent's Hospital, where he was not expected to live. He and 39 other workers were setting a rail into place when it touched the third rail, emitting a shower of sparks. Bronieska's clothing was set afire, and he was knocked unconscious. The others were not hurt.

Awarded $68,000

New York, May 18 (AP).—A sealed verdict opened in Bronx Supreme Court awarded Raymond E. Senkus $68,000 in the $100,000 damage suit he brought against the New York Central Railroad. Senkus sued as the result of an acicdent at Yorktown Heights, N. Y., September 17, 1934, in which Senkus lost his right arm and sustained other injuries. He testified during the trial that he got off the train at the station, started to walk around the rear car to reach the other side of the tracks and was run over when the train started to back up

Merrill's Plans

New York, May 18 (AP) — Fresh from his latest trans-Atlantic flight and a meeting with President Roosevelt, Pilot Dick Merrill laid plans today for an airplane visit to Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario, Canada. Merrill said he and Jack Lambie, his partner on last week's ocean crossing, will take off tomorrow in their trans-Atlantic plane to meet the premier probably at Toronto. Questioned concerning reports that Premier Hepburn would make a flight with him from Toronto to Ottawa, Merrill said he didn't know of any such plan.

Memorial Day Meeting

The Memorial Day Committee will meet Wednesday evening at 7:30 at the American Legion Building. All organizations interested in formulating a program for the observance of the day here are requested to have representatives at the meeting.

Judge Van Devanter Retires June 2 From U.S. Supreme Court

(Copyright 1937, By The Associated Press)

Washington, May 18—Associate Justice Willis Van Devanter informed President Roosevelt today that he would retire from active service on the Supreme Court bench on June 2.

The 78-year-old jurist, who has been known as a member of the so-called Conservative wing of the court, made his intention known in a letter to the President shortly before the Senate judiciary committee met to vote on Mr. Roosevelt's court reorganization bill.

The Chief Executive's demand for "new blood" on the court has created an epochal national controversy.

Simultaneously, officials vested with high authority said there probably would be no more retirements from the court at this time. But others said that before the beginning of the fall term of the court in October, Justice Sutherland might take advantage of the retirement act.

Four Others Eligible

Four other justices are eligible for retirement—Chief Justice Hughes and Associate Justices McReynolds, Brandies, and Butler.

Chief Justice Hughes called the retirement of Van DeVanter a "most serious loss" to the court.

In a statement the Chief Justice said:

"His long judicial experience, his extraordinary memory and grasp of precedents, his acumen and fairness enabled him to render a service of inestimable value in our deliberations, while his equable temperament, his tact and unfailing kindliness made him an ideal associate. We shall greatly miss him."

Vandevanter wrote this letter to Mr. Roosevelt:

"My dear Mr. President:

"Having held my commission as an associate justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, and served in that court for twenty-six years, and having come to be seventy-eight years of age, I desire to avail myself of the rights, privileges and judicial service specified in the act of March 1, 1937, entitled "An act to provide for retirement of justices of the Supreme Court", and to that end I hereby retire from regular active service on the bench—this retirement to be effective on and after the second day of June, 1937, that being the day next following the adjournment of the present term of the court.

"I have the honor to remain,

"Very respectfully your,

"(Signed) Willis Van Devanter.

"The President."

(The act to which the justice referred permits justices over 70 to retire at full pay—$20,000 annually.)

Member Since 1911.

Van Devanter has been a member of the court since 1911. Considered a conservative by the administration, his departure from the bench will give President Roosevelt an opportunity to select a successor—his first appointment to the bench.

There was instant speculation on Capitol Hill over the effect Van Devanter's action would have on the court fight. Administration leaders, however, awaited word from the White House.

The retirement created the first vacancy on the court since 91-year-old Oliver Wendell Holmes resigned in 1932 after serving 30 years. He was succeeded by Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo.

Until the beginning of the present term of court last October, Van Devanter had voted against administration action or laws 12 times and for it once in litigation before the tribunal. The sole exception was the Tennessee Valley Authority controversy and the decision did not involve constitutionality of the act.

How He Voted.

This term, however, he voted in line with the administration nine times and against it three times. Two of the three votes were against application of the Wagner Labor Relations Act to The Associated Press and to manufacturing concerns. The other was against the administration's contention that the Congressional resolution abrogating payment in gold applied to bullion as well as to coin.

If a justice whose views were those of administration lawyers had been on the bench instead of Van Devanter since Mr. Roosevelt was inaugurated in 1933, it would have changed the outcome of only three major cases.

These involved the New York law establishing minimum wages for women, the railway pension act and the municipal bankruptcy statute, all five to four decisions. The court has since reversed itself and upheld a Washington state law fixing women's minimum wages. Plans also are under way for a revised railway pension measure.

Only 14 justices in the history of the nation have surpassed Van Devanter in length of service on the high court. He was a member of the tribunal for 26 years. The record of 34 years was established by

National Guard Units in Kingston Get High Federal Rankings after Inspection

Three local officers in the 156th Field Artillery, New York National Guard, stationed at the armory on N. Manor avenue, were highly commended for their parts in training the local artillerymen and supervising the care of the government property at the armory, as a result of the recent federal inspection, according to reports received at the armory today. The officers are Capt. C. N. Behrens, adjutant, who is executive officer of the first battalion and officer in charge; Capt. James P. Byrne, commanding officer of Battery A, and First Lieut. E. A. Steuding, commanding officer of Headquarters Battery and Combat Train.

The federal inspection was made by Lt. Col. E. C. Hanford, F. A., during April, and the report he made to the regiment was forwarded by Col. Thiede, commanding officer of the 156th Field Artillery.

The report in part states: Proficiency of battalion command and staff tested by specially prepared map problem. Manner of handling and rating of solution showed excellent instruction." The instructing officer of the first battalion is Major J. S. Tate, stationed at Kingston, who local officers say must receive considerable credit for teaching them all branches of methods in connection with their duties

One of Highest Reports.

Battery A received from Lt. Col Hanford one of the highest reports ever given a peace time national guard unit. This unit is the second oldest historically in the United States and today Capt. Byrne said, "It is most heartening for the officers and enlisted men to receive a peace-time report which is one of the highest ever given." Excerpts from the report under "remarks" state:

No deficiencies reported last year. Qualifications and appearance of personnel rated as excellent, a model example of selective recruiting. A superbly kept, modern armory, with facilities and appointments on a high order. Full advantage taken for training and promotion of organizational interests of morale and maintenance strength.

Captain James P. Byrne, commanding, merits special commendation for concentration on high standards in organization of the unit and intelligent methods of instruction to produce a basically grounded and competently trained unit which, with continued development under pro-

Brockelhurst, Girl Leave for Arksansas, Speedy Trial Ahead

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., May 18 (AP)—Asking "How long will it be before I get the electric chair?" Lester Brockelhurst, 23, wanted on murder charges in three states, boarded a train today with Bernice Felton, 18, bound for a scheduled swift trial in Arkansas.

Shackled together and in the custody of Prosecutor Joseph P. Melton, of Lonoke county, Arkansas, Brockelhurst and the Rockford, Ill., girl he called his "hometown sweetheart" left at 9:36 a. m. E.S.T., via New York Central on the first leg of a scheduled 36-hour journey.

Prosecutor Melton, who quoted Brockelhurst as asking how soon he would face legal death for the murder of Victor Gates, wealthy Little Rock plantation owner, said he replied:

"Six days at the least after trial starts and 30 days at the most."

Governor Lehman signed extradition papers yesterday after a conference at Albany with Illinois, Texas and Arkansas officials, awarding to Arkansas custody of Brockelhurst, charged with murder, and the girl, charged with being an accessory.

"Willing to Return"

"I am willing to return," the former Sunday school teacher said a few hours later as he was arraigned in Dutchess county and informed officially of the Governor's action. His sweetheart, Bernice Felton, 18,

Windsor-Warfield Nuptials June 3

Former King Edward Will Wed Mrs. Wallis Warfield at Chateau de Cande, but without British Royalty Present.

Monts, France, May 18 (AP).—Wallis Warfield and the Duke of Windsor will be married quietly at the Charteau De Cande on June 3, with no member of the British royal family in attendance.

The man who chose to be husband rather than king chose the birthday of his late father, Geeorge V, for his wedding to the woman he could not have as monarch.

The announcement, which made no mention of the coincidence in dates, said the wedding party would be confined to "those who have been with them"—the Duke and Mrs. Warfield—"during the past months," and added tersely:

"There will be members of the royal family present."

Right up to the moment of the announcement, many had supposed that the Duke of Kent, Edward's youngest brother, would be best man.

The official announcement of the wedding itself, handed to reporters at the gates of the Chateau by Herman L. Rogers, said:

"His Royal Highness the Duke of Windsor announces that his marriage to Wallis Warfield, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Teakle Wallis Warfield of Maryland, will take place at the Chateau De Cande at Monts on Thursday, June 3."

Mrs. Warfield only recently renounced her first name, "Bessie," and the surname of the man from whom she was divorced early this month—Ernest Aldrich Simpson.

The long-awaited wedding date, curtain call for the last act in an unsurpassed drama of empire, love and abdication, comes just 20 days before Edward's 43rd birthday. His father, the late King George V, was born on June 3, 1865, and died January 20, 1936.

June likewise is Mrs. Warfield's birth month. She will be 41 on June 19.

Rogers, the wealthy New Yorker who was virtual guardian and spokesman for Mrs. Warfield during the wait for her final divorce decree, gave the announcement to a hundred American, French and English newspapermen at the Chateau gates.

Edward and Mrs. Warfield did not appear.

A drizzling rain was falling, but Rogers wore no hat.

He was so excited he groped frantically for the French words needed to translate the announcement for the French reporters.

Rogers would put no interpretation on his declaration that "invitations to the wedding of the Duke of Windsor and Mrs. Wallis Warfield will be confined to those who have been with them during the past months."

Neither would he say who, definitely, would be invited.

Saddened Citizens In Last Tribute to Carey and DeWitt

Coroner's Inquest Likely Next Week, End of Probe Nears

While the funerals of the two firemen, who were fatally injured in the early Saturday morning tragedy on the Broadway crossing were being held today, the latest developments were:

It was stated that the district attorney would fix the date for holding the coroner's inquest, which, it is likely, will be held next week.

The police department investigation of the tragedy is practically completed.

The Board of Fire Commissioners met Monday evening at the Central Fire Station and appointed three men to serve as temporary firemen and also decided to prepare specifications and ask for bids on a new fire truck for the fire department.

Fireman Finkle's condition was reported slightly improved. Assistant District Attorney N. Le Van Haver said this morning that the district attorney was busy this week with the grand jury, which was the reason why the date has not yet been fixed, and also that the district attorney desired to give the police department time to complete its investigation.

It is understood that the investigation launched by Chief of Police J Allan Wood on Saturday morning has now been practically completed. It is hardly likely, however, than any report on the investigation will be made public, at least until after it has been filed with District Attorney Cleon B Murray.

Coroner's Inquest.

The coroner's inquest will be held for the purpose of examining witnesses and trying to fix the blame, if any, for the fatal crash of the fire truck with the passenger train about 2:25 o'clock Saturday morning as the fire truck was on it way down Broadway to the Central Fire Station, after being on duty at the Downs street fire.

What action will be taken by the district attorney in the tragedy will depend on the evidence presented at the coroner's inquest.

Finkle Slightly Improved.

At the Kingston Hospital this morning it was stated that the condition of Fireman Ferrill F. Finkle was slightly improved. His condition however, still remains critical, but he is making a strong battle for life. He has not been informed of the death of Firemen Peter A. Carey and Preston DeWitt.

Three Appointed.

The Board of Fire Commissioners met at the Central Fire Station on Monday evening and selected three men from the eligible list of 56 names submitted by the municipal civil service commission to serve as temporary firemen for a period of 30 days.

The three men named as temporary firemen are: Daniel V Noble of 74 Third avenue, Joseph Cwill of 50 Tompkins street and James M Brett of 132 Wilbur avenue. The three men reported for duty this morning at the Central Fire Station.

Bids For New Truck.

It was also stated that the fire board decided to prepare specifications and ask for bids on a new fire truck to replace the truck wrecked in the tragedy.

TIME FOR COURT—"WHAT?" SAYS JUDGE, "WITH BASES FULL"

Hamilton, O., May 18 (AP)—It was 4 p m. Municipal Judge E. N. Davidson was in his chambers. Court room spectators squirmed for the session to begin.

Bailiff Clem Imfeld opened a connecting door and reminded the judge it was "time for court."

"Say, young man," returned the judge, who was seated before his radio, "don't you know Chicago's just loaded the bases?"

Davidson and Imfeld, both ardent Cincinnati Red fans, delayed legal business until the Cubs were retired in the fourth inning of their game at Cincinnati.

Streets Lined with Friends of Popular Fireman Carey as Funeral Passes From Home to St. Joseph's Church.

"HIS LAST ALARM"

Similar Tribute for Fireman Preston DeWitt, Second Victim of Tragedy, This Afternoon.

Kingston was cloaked in sadness today as two members of the Kingston Fire Department, who gave their lives following a tragic accident last Saturday, were laid to rest after impressive funeral rites, attended by throngs of sorrowing people.

This morning Peter A. Carey, first of the pair to die, was honored as bells of St. Joseph's Church tolled a parting and hundreds crowded the church for a solemn high Mass.

This afternoon similar tribute was paid in last rites conducted for Preston L. DeWitt at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Petri, 172 Flatbush avenue following which burial took place in Wiltwyck cemetery.

Streets uptown in the vicinity of the late Mr. Carey's home, 60 Clinton avenue, and the church, were lined with friends of the popular fireman as his funeral passed to St. Mary's Cemetery where his remains were interred in the family plot.

A solemn Mass of requiem for the repose of his soul was offered at St. Joseph's Church, which was filled to capacity with people in all stations of life, from the mayor down to those who knew Pete Carey to speak to as they passed the fire station.

Celebrant of the Mass was the Rev. Louis M. Cusack, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, assisted by his two curates, the Rev. Edmund Burke as deacon and the Rev. John J. Manning as sub-deacon. Responses to the Mass were sung by the children's choir, with William Raible as the soloist at the offertory and at the conclusion of the services.

Numerous Floral Pieces

Floral pieces were numerous, and included an elaborate one in the form of an alarm box with the number 73 worked in, the alarm number he answered last Saturday, together with the inscription, "He Answered His Last Call." This came from the fire department

Leading the funeral cortege were Patrolmen Elbert Soper and Lenville Relyea on motorcycles. Patrolmen Howard Kinch and Frank Sammons drove one of the radio cars, and following them came the American Legion, color guard and firing squad.

In the Legion delegation were Webster Benton, Joseph Beichert, John Webber, Walter Tammany, David Conway, James G. Norton, William Jordan, in command, Joseph Sills, Abraham Singer Frank Sass, A. J. Murphy, Jr., Roy Jacob, Ward Relyea, and the Rev. Clarance Brown, chaplain.

Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman, Fire Chiefs Joseph L. Murphy of Kingston and Chris Noll of Poughkeepsie, and Deputy Fire Chief Fred M. Leverich were next, followed by Fire Commissioners Edward Moran, Charles Mullen, E. Wertenbahn, Corporation Counsel John M. Cashin, City Assessor George Moore, Edgar J. Dempsey and Harry B. Walker, former mayors, Alderman-at-Large John Schwenk, and Philip Beichert, former fire commissioner, Gordon Craig, assistant city treasurer.

Next in position was a unit representing the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Police Represented.

The Kingston police department was represented by Sergeant James V. Simpson at the head of the following delegation: William T. Roedell, Ray Van Buren, Harry Martin, Guernsey Berger, James Welsh, William Reardon, Peter Keresman, Wesley Cramer, James Burns, Henry P. Barmann, Robert Healy, Henry Straley and Edward Mahoney.

Newburgh and Poughkeepsie firemen walked in the line, with firemen from the Kingston Paid Department who served with Peter A. Carey. Volunteer firemen swelled the ranks, men being present from Cordts Hose, Carey's own company, Weiner Hose, Excelsior Hose and Twaalfskill Hose, together with volunteer firemen who attended the funeral because of their friendship for the deceased.

In front of the hearse walked Captain Henry Albrecht of Cornell Hose, one of the oldest members of the fire department in years of service. On either side were the bearers, Wright Maines, Joseph Diamond, William Geary, Harry Richter, Harold Sanford and Edward Noble.

Taps Blown

As the body of Peter A. Carey was laid to rest in the family plot, taps were blown by Frank Sass, American Legion bugler, and a volley from a firing squad rang through St. Mary's Cemetery, as part of the last rites rendered for an ex-serviceman. He served with the 77th Division overseas during the World War.

Monday night delegations from the Legion, fire companies of the city, and Newburgh and Poughkeepsie,

Ulster Fruit Industry Advanced By Establishment of Exchange

Another leading industry of Ulster county is the fruit industry, with particular stress on the southern part of the territory known as the "rich southern Ulster friut belt." From this section comes some of the finest fruit in the world; emphasizing apples, grapes, peaches and berries.

The Hudson valley has always been known as a fruit belt but one of the reasons that has helped considerably in recent years to place this locality in the foremost ranks of the world's fruit producing centers, is the formation of a co-operative organization to aid in the raising and marketing of fruit. This organization was formed just 25 years ago and is known as the Hudson River Fruit Exchange, Inc., covering the territory between Kingston and Newburgh

Established In 1912

For several years prior to 1912, the fruit-growers of the southern Ulster belt felt the need of some sort of organization to aid in the marketing of their product and to build up the industry to the place it should occupy in the industrial world Then 25 years ago, William Y Velie decided it was high time that something be done concerning this situation, and so he called in the assistance of C E Thurston of New York who had some experience in organization work among fruit-growers The first job was to call on the local fruit-growers between Kingston and Newburgh, and to find out what their individual attitude would be toward such an organization whose chief purpose was for their own betterment—a cooperative effort.

The two principal objections encountered was the financing of such a project and the cooperation of all fruit-growers A meeting was called on March 15, 1912, which was attended by about 40 interested citizens of the locality, and it was decided to form a cooperative organization A committee was appointed to interview the various growers included in the territory to be covered, and to assemble the respective opinions into a set of by-laws to govern the project. Since this occurred 25 years ago it can be easily seen that to contact all the fruit-growers meant days of travel, as automobiles were not then in common use.

The organization was finally completed and a certificate of incorporation was filed on April 25, 1912, and the Hudson River Fruit Exchange made its bow in the industrial field with a charter for 20 years, capital stock of $2,000, and a list of 63 sponsors. The first board of directors included William Y. Velie, Edwin W. Barnes, Major Lucius C. Tuckerman, Frederick W. Vail, and Abram P. Wilklow George Hildebrand of Rhinelander, Wis., was engaged as manager.

Problem of Finance

The exchange immediately faced the problem of finance, and finally two sources of income were provided. At that time practically all fruit was consigned to and sold through commission houses which charged 10 per cent for selling and paid three per cent to their own employe representatives It was agreed to, with much reluctance on the part of several of these commission houses, that the exchange act as agent, receiving a commission of two per cent on the sale of all consigned fruit The other source of revenue was a commission of three per cent paid to the exchange on all business it transacted for its members

The result of the venture was a business totaling almost $41,000 for the first year, accomplished through the gift of time and funds by Major Tuckerman, John A. Hepworth, Dudley Palmer, the board of directors, and Manager Hildebrand With this beginning, the organization continued to grow until today it can point to a quarter of a century of successful business that has boosted the fruit industry of Ulster county to a place of prominence.

Seven Objectives

The seven objectives of the Hudson River Fruit Exchange Inc., as set forth in the papers of incorporation in 1912 were listed as follows:

"The object of this exchange shall be to encourage the co-operation of the fruit-growers of the Hudson river valley for the protection and advancement of their common interests.

1.—By securing and disseminating such scientific and practical information as shall promote the general advancement of the fruit growing interests in this distict and shall tend to the improvement of the quality and quantity of our products.

2.—By securing such legislation as may be advantageous and preventing that which may be detrimental.

3.—By securing such improved facilities in transportation as shall tend to give us more expeditious and economical distribution of our products.

4.—By endeavoring to secure a better and more uniform system of packing and package.

5.—By devising some system of marketing our products as shall open up and develop markets, and to give the grower a fair and remunerative return.

6.—And endeavor to obtain such improved system of crop reports as shall furnish accurate information concerning production, thereby enabling the fruit-grower to know the exact situation.

7.—By co-operative purchase of such supplies as are needed by the members."

Cold Storage Plant

Closely connected with the Hudson River Fruit Exchange is the Milton Cold Storage Plant which was built in 1928 with a capacity of 150,000 packages. The plant is a modern concrete-block building consisting of five floors, located on the river front at Milton, adjoining the depot of the exchange. The four upper floors are used for storing of apples with refrigeration pipes installed on the ceiling of the second and fourth floors—the floors of the other two sections are made of slat-work so that one set of refrigerating pipes will do for two floors. At the time the exchange was formed, there were no local cold storage plants of any size, and fruit had to be shipped to market as it was gathered, laying the fruit grower open to acceptance of any price the commission merchant chose to pay or else have his product rot on his hands. The establishment of the Milton plant and several plants belonging to the members of the exchange, has elliminated any chance on poor prices of losing the fruit and has thus established the fruit-grower on a more substantial basis.

The ground floor of the Milton plant houses two freezing rooms which have grown into an important source of income for the fruit-grower. 100,000 cu. ft. of freezer room is available, where grapes, cherries, strawberries and currants can be frozen for shipment to market. Last fall the exchange received an order for 300 tons of grape pulp. In processing these grapes they were brought up to a temperature of 165 edgrees Fahrenheit, and then cooled by fans before being frozen in 50-gallon barrels. The pulp is then frozen solid for at least three months at low temperatures to freeze out certain unwanted ingredients. Temperatures of 12 to 14 degrees are maintained in these coolers with registering clocks keeping record of the temperature each hour of the day and night. Two Frick compressors driven by two 30-horsepower motors, are the equipment used to maintain the cold storage facilities.

Growth of Business

A sideline, typical of the fruit industry but also very essential, is the packages necessary to contain the fruit for market. Prices for the various packages were exceptionally high in the year 1919, and so in 1920 the exchange purchased the crate factory of August Kaley and now supplies its members with all varieties of packages at prices greatly below those asked by other manufacturers. In 1926 an oil emulsion plant was set up for the benefit of the members and 3,000 barrels of this necessary product was distributed at a saving. Warehouses and packing equipment were added to the business of the exchange to aid the fruit-growers in bettering their respective positions. In 1926 a cherry-pitting plant was established at Marlborough to take care of a surplus of the fruit of that season, and for a number of years this addition proved its worth to the members.

In 1922 the exchange decided that a strict grading, uniform packing, putting up trade-marked brands of high standard quality, and advertising of such brands, was necessary to command premium prices. Following out these recommendations, a trade name, "Hudsonia", was selected by a contest, and today this name signifies only the best in Hudson River Valley fruit.

The business of the organization has increased until figures for 1936 show the sales total reaching well over the seven million dollar mark with operating costs greatly reduced.

The Hudson River Fruit Exchange, Inc., owned and controlled by local fruit-growers, has served to make the fruits of southern Ulster better known than could be possible without organization. It is noted for a high quality of product and attracts buyers looking for dependable pack. When prices were low, just a little better than the market run of prices makes a favorable difference, and in the year 1931 the exchange succeeded in obtaining a price of $30 per ton for local grapes when prices were being paid as low as $15 per ton. This is an example of cooperation managed for the benefits of members under their own direction. The success of its 25 years of business has evidenced the exchange as the prime factor in the establishment of fruit-growing as a leading industry of Ulster county.

FLASHES OF LIFE SKETCHED IN BRIEF

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Alarming Situation

Lindenwold, N. J.—The Lindenwold fire engine is out of service unless some one provides the fire company with $225.

That's the amount it will take to bail the Lindenwold fire engine out of an auto body company's shop. The company attached the engine, charging the borough failed to pay for painting it red.

Chicken-Hearted

Veedersburg, Ind.—Forrest Songer placed a dozen eggs in a nest, and two of his hens sat on them, side by side. There hatched eight white chicks, a black one and a brown one. Not long puzzled, the hens divided the brood evenly, each taking four white chicks, and one the black and the other the brown.

Just Hanging Around

Portland—A middle-aged man, who spent three years searching cafes and restaurants for his stolen hat, finally found the headpiece hang in a public market. He dashed to the police station to swear out a warrant but officers informed him nothing could be done because two years had elapsed since the crime had been committed. He admitted he paid but $2.65 for the hat when new.

Can't Drive

Richmond, Va.—State officials revoked for a year the driving license of B. O. Arehart because of a drunken driving conviction.

When they came to notify Arehart they found him in the state penitentiary for two years, sentenced for another offense.

La Salle V-8 BREAKS STOCK CAR RECORD for Indianapolis Speedway

Ralph DePalma Averages 82.18 Miles Per Hour in 500-Mile Run

ON MONDAY, MAY 10TH, a stock model LaSalle V-8—running under A.A.A. supervision—broke the stock car record for the Indianapolis Speedway!

With Ralph DePalma at the wheel, the distance was covered in 366 minutes—an average of 82.18 miles per hour! This is almost 8 miles per hour faster than the original Speedway record established by racing cars!

The tank was filled with regular pump-type Ethyl gasoline, and only regulation motor oil was used. The oil consumption was less than one quart!

In spite of the record time, it was not a trial for speed. The run was made to prove LaSalle's endurance, roadability, safety and handling ease. Had DePalma tried for speed, he could have bettered his time materially.

At the finish of the run, DePalma wired the Cadillac factory as follows:

"I finished third in the original Indianapolis race, and I was physically and mentally exhausted. Today, I feel fine after completing the same 500 miles in a LaSalle at a much faster pace. I never drove a car that performed in so effortless a fashion or handled so easily. My hat is certainly off to LaSalle!"

Wouldn't you like to drive the car that can thrill a veteran driver like Ralph DePalma? If so, come in today. We will gladly place a LaSalle at your disposal.

Old-Age Benefit Check Received

A resident of Kingston becomes the first person in the Mid-Hudson area to receive a check drawn on the treasurer of the United States in payment of a lump sum benefit under the old age retirement feature of the Social Security Act, it was learned today from John Form, field representative of the Social Security Board at Kingston.

Application for this lump sum benefit was filed at the Kingston office of the Social Security Board, 277 Fair street, and supplemental data was furnished by the employer of the deceased. The application was then forwarded to the Social Security Board in Washington, D. C., and after the certification to the treasury department, payment was made to a resident of this city, whose name is being withheld by the board.

To date, the largest sum payable under Title II of the Social Security Act, for which application has been received, is $105, but Mr. Form pointed out that such lump sum benefits are rapidly increasing in size as we draw away from January 1, 1937, from which date earnings under the old age retirement benefits feature of the Social Security Act are computed. It is readily apparent what this death benefit would have been had the worker lived and worked for another ten years.

Title II of the Social Security Act contains three different types of cash benefits. It provides first of all for the payment of a lump sum benefit of 3½% of the total wages earned by a worker in each included employment since December 31, 1936, up to the time the worker becomes 65. If a worker should die before reaching 65, and after January 1, 1937, this 3½% benefit payment is made to his estate, as was done in this case.

Mr Form explained that no doubt there are many who are now eligible to receive cash payments under the old age benefits plan of the Social Security Act. Estimates by the Social Security Board are that in New York state this year about 42,000 workers will be eligible for these lump sums, and that 1,160 of them will be from the Mid-Hudson area alone.

Mr. Form explained that if you are a worker who has just turned 65, or if you know of a worker who has passed on, or if you are a relative of such worker, you will want to know how to file the proper claim form. The procedure is simple—as simple as the Social Security Board can make it. Claim forms may be obtained from the local office of the board, where all needed assistance may be had. It is not necessary for you to employ or pay anyone to help you file a claim.

Likewise, Mr Form pointed out, employers of workers in included employment who have become 65 or died since January 1, 1937, are required to file Form SS 3 with the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Employers also may obtain all necessary information and data in connection with their requirements by communicating with the nearest field office of the Social Security Board.

AMERICAN DICTATORSHIP

Perhaps Ambassador Dodd, American representative in Berlin, was unduly excited when he wrote to Senator Buckley of the unnamed billionaire who was ready to establish a dictatorship in this country. The resulting flurry has resulted in the ambassador hedging a little. He insists, however, that "three well-informed Americans" talked to him in 1935 and 1936 about "certain powerful men who were thinking of a dictatorship."

Many Americans, no doubt, both powerful and otherwise, have thought about dictatorship since Russia, Italy and Germany set the styles for one-man government. Anybody can think about dictatorship. But the chances are that anybody of importance who ever thought favorably of centralized, one-man government in this country has soon thought again, realizing the absurdity of it.

Intelligent Americans have mostly seen, quickly enough, the "catches" in foreign dictatorships. The more we see of them, the less we like them. Besides, you don't get dictatorships in a country where every man feels that he's running the government, or has a right to say how it shall be run. There can't be a dictatorship where everybody insists on dictating at once, and where, as soon as anybody starts acting dictatorial, several million people jerk the chair out from under him.

COURT COMPROMISE

The President came back from his fishing trip apparently as determined as ever to shove through his court reorganization plan, calling for six new justices if the old ones fail to retire. He is quoted as telling his leaders that there must be no compromise. General Farley, echoing his Chief's words, says flatly, "there is no need for a compromise." Meaning, presumably, that there are votes enough.

But there may be other considerations than the counting of congressional votes. A thing may be possible, even lawful, as St. Paul once said, but not expedient.

England, on which American eyes have been focussed lately, has muddled along pretty successfully for a thousand years, largely through a gift for compromising when compromise was, as the doctors say, "indicated."

WHO ARE THE UNEMPLOYED?

Opinions still differ as to the extent of unemployment in this country, but Harry Hopkins' estimate of 7,000,000 to 9,000,000 seems to be about the average guess, and is probably as good as any.

More interesting than those figures themselves is his estimate that in normal times there are 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 unemployed people. This would reduce the present excess of unemployment, caused by depression, to 3,000,000 or 4,000,000, a far less appalling number than most of the estimates.

The whole matter, though, is still very uncertain. And this uncertainty, perhaps, is due not so much to the lack of statistical facts as it is to the lack of standards by which to judge those facts. How do we define the term "unemployed person?" A complete study of this problem would be very interesting industrially, socially and politically.

CRAZY INVENTIONS

Ever since the G-man became our chief national hero, the Federal Bureau of Investigation has been the recipient of numerous, freely offered ideas for doing its work better. From the quantity of such suggestions accumulated one might well believe the great American public does nothing else but invent criminal-catching devices for Uncle Sam's law-enforcers.

All this help hasn't proved very helpful, however, because few people are as good inventors as they think they are. For example, one serious gentleman had a plan for spraying a certain powerful chemical on everybody. The chemical would kill criminals instantly but do no harm whatever to honest people. When asked for its name, the inventor explained cheerily that he had thought up only the idea. It was up to the F. B. I. to discover the chemical.

The two-way automobile which would run equally well in either direction hasn't been perfected yet, but has been recommended as a quick way to pursue criminals without having to waste time turning around. The Bureau looks into a lot of these things, not hopefully, but as a part of its work. There's a chance that some useful idea may turn up some time. But the average inventor of crime-detectors is neither an Edison nor a Rube Goldberg. Most of the gadgets don't work and aren't even funny.

That Body of Yours

TREATING STOMACH ULCER

I write recently of the patient with ulcer of the stomach (peptic ulcer) who became so tired of watching his daily diet, and taking alkalies several times a day that he underwent operation to remove the ulcer thinking this would cure the condition for life. He was greatly disappointed when he learned that it was his "personality," his high strung nervous personality that caused peptic ulcers, and that if he were not still careful of his diet another ulcer would form.

Naturally therefore when a "new" cure for peptic ulcer is announced that doesn't interfere too much with the diet and makes the use of alkalies unnecessary, there is going to be a real trial of the method by patients and physicians.

Dr. John T. Eads, Philadelphia, in the American Journal of Digestive Juices and Nutrition, in referring to cases treated at Jefferson Hospital says:

"Over a course of about six months we have treated 35 cases of peptic ulcer with histidine injections. The patient's weight, blood count, stomach analysis, pulse, blood pressure and X-ray findings were recorded before the proposed course of injections were started." Practically no special diet was given or treatment by medicines followed; none of the patients were confined to bed and the majority was permitted to continue usual occupations.

There were both stomach and duodenal (intestine) ulcers; the average length of time the symptoms had been present was 7½ years.

The results showed that there was no "reaction" following the injections in the skin itself or in the body as a whole—no change in pulse, blood, or blood pressure. Sixteen patients gained weight, 13 remained the same weight and six lost weight. The X-ray examination showed that in six cases all evidence of ulcer had disappeared. In 8 other cases there was definite improvement in symptoms and in the X-ray findings; in the remaining 21 cases there was little or no change noted.

Briefly 6 cases were cured and X-ray showed no evidence of ulcer; 8 cases showed some improvement in symptoms and X-ray findings; 9 cases showed improvement in symptoms but no X-ray change; 12 cases were unimproved at the end of the treatment.

Granting that this is not a large number of cases, nevertheless, "the histidine treatment's chief benefit would appear to be getting away from the special diets and medicines, and prompt and early relief of symptoms with no disagreeable reactions."

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

SYNOPSIS: First, the mysterious shooting to death of attractive Jude Blinshop makes us all jittery on this wild, stormy weekend at Farrington Bluff, home of Michael's aunts. A series of strange attacks is apparently explained when we find below the bluff the body of Michael's insane father, supposedly long since dead. But our relief is short-lived; Aunt Martha is shot in the shoulder by an unseen hand. Who held the gun? Mike; the Skipper, his tall, tweedy younger aunt; Gay Palmer, his red-headed sweetheart; Higgins, the old butler; William, the chauffeur; Cook; Annie, the maid; myself?

Chapter 28

The Case Against Me

WHEN Higgins finally spoke, his voice was cool and collected. "This is horrible, Mr. Jimmie."

"Yes." My plan crystallized. "Wait here, Higgins."

I went into the Skipper's room and, after considerable rummaging, located a box of bath powder. Holding the gun by the tip of the barrel with my fingers carefully wrapped in the handkerchief, I dusted the thing liberally with powder and then blew.

A faint white film remained on the shiny metal, but it was an even film. There were no fingerprints on the revolver. And Higgins, who had possessed the presence of mind to wrap his own hand in a handkerchief before touching it, had just attempted to thrust the thing into my outstretched bare hand.

"Until the police arrive," he had said.

That second shooting was one of the most sinister episodes of those days and nights of terror. In broad daylight with everyone up and about we had hitherto considered ourselves safe. It was puzzling, too, for it seemed to represent an inexcusable slip in the killer's otherwise workable plans. He had managed to convince the entire household of the guilt of Norman Farrington who would never be able to disprove the charge. Why had he ruined all his work and why, of all people, would he shoot M. Farrington?

Martha herself had little evidence to offer. She had just gotten out of bed, she explained, with the intention of dressing for lunch. As she sat down at the dressing table, someone knocked at the door. Thinking that it was the Skipper, she called out, "Come in," without looking up. And that was all she remembered. She thought she caught a glimpse of a man's coat sleeve reflected in her mirror, but she wasn't sure.

We could get nothing more out of her. She was panic-stricken and hysterical. There was no side-stepping the fact that my presence in the room was singular, to put it mildly. The gun which Higgins had found was undoubtedly the weapon used. One bullet had been fired from it. And anyone could see that it would have been a simple thing for me to have fired from the door, deposit the revolver on the stand in the hall, and be the first person on the scene of the accident.

It Looks Bad For Me

WE SAT in the living room, waiting for the Skipper's report on the effect of the sleeping powder which she had just administered to her sister. Higgins had been ordered to tell the other servants that the revolver had gone off while I was cleaning it, and that no one had been hurt. As Gay pointed out, we might at least have some decent meals for the next few hours. We were apt to need them.

Gay and Michael sat close together. I think she was telling him the Skipper's story. In any case, he was listening intently, although his eyes strayed to me from time to time, clouded with something that puzzled me.

I had plenty of time to review the facts and to appreciate the overwhelming extent of my danger. In the first place, I had once been in love with Jude Blinshop. In the second place, no one had seen me on Friday night from the time the Skipper left me until Michael roused me at something after 11 o'clock. True, I had been in full sight of everybody when Cook had screamed from the kitchen, but it seemed fairly evident that Mike's father had been responsible for that mêlé in the kitchen. Certainly it would explain his reentry into the house.

I had been in the living room alone when Gay and Mike heard prowling footsteps in the hall. William had clearly suspected me of hitting him over the head and dumping him down the back stairs. My own experience at that time could be explained all too easily by a clever prosecutor. There would always be Norman Farrington for him to fall back upon whenever his logic hit a snag.

I had been the first upon the scene of the latest crime, found there by several witnesses. No one but myself could account for my actions after I left Higgins downstairs. Good Lord! That conversation with Higgins! A first-year student of law could make considerable out of that! Murderer, warned that suspicion still exists, becomes desperate, etc. My head was buzzing with it. Over and over again I reviewed that ghastly moment with Higgins in the upper hall, when by the fraction of a second I had escaped putting the final, damning link in the chain of evidence—my own fingerprints on the fatal weapon.

A Faustian Mephisto

HIGGINS announced lunch rather early, explaining that Miss Farrington was not yet asleep and that Miss Barbara had ordered him to serve at once. But the Skipper's plan failed utterly. Far from creating diversion, lunch was an even more depressing experience than doing nothing in the living room. Without either the Skipper or M. Farrington to keep us going, we picked at food in uncomfortable silence. I could not bear to look at Higgins. Had he offered me that gun deliberately, knowing that it had already been wiped clean of the murderer's fingerprints? Would he have denied the entire episode in court?

Dusting the revolver with powder, I blew. There were no finger-prints.

I thought that he would. In my imagination the frail old man was beginning to take on the proportions of a Faustian Mephisto. What had he started to tell me before he changed his mind? Anything? He might have been building up that chain of circumstantial evidence deliberately.

Higgins was the owner of the gun which had in all probability killed Jude Blinshop and wounded M. Farrington. Our searches had disclosed no other weapon in the house. Whoever used that gun on Jude must have cleaned and reloaded it before it was handed to Michael on Friday night. And who had as good an opportunity for doing that as Higgins?

True, he had been with the rest of us when the episode in the kitchen transpired, and in the room with all the others when William and I met our fate. But in both those cases the active presence of the lunatic was not only possible, but distinctly probable. The noiseless tread that had always seemed pleasant to me before suddenly became threatening and sinister. I jumped every time the man came near me with food.

There was no longer any sense in dodging the fact that the murderer must be a recognized inmate of the house. The possibility of a second unknown wandering the Bluff in darkness was absurd. It was obvious that the person who shot M. Farrington had known just where to find her, just where to dispose of his or her gun, just where to conceal himself or herself after the shot had been fired.

(Copyright, 1937, Esther Tyler)

Tomorrow, I check Norman Farrington's sinister activities.

Phoenicia, May 18 — A reception was held in honor of the Rev. F. S. H. Bailey Thursday evening in the lecture room. The ladies of the Baptist Church tendered the same and also for G. Baldwin as senior deacon. A call was extended to the Rev. Mr. Bailey to be installed as pastor. The room was artistically decorated with flowers. The tables were lovely in flowers outlining color schemes. Mrs. W. Weyman and Mrs. Wagner were in charge of the decorations. At the center table the pastor and deacons were seated. Look Pleasant, Please

Kansas City—Dentists of Kansas and Missouri were told how to make their offices more pleasant by James Robinson of Chicago.

"I have visited reception rooms decorated with hunting trophies," said Robinson. "A reception room shouldn't resemble a hunting lodge. Stuffed animals and fish carry the idea of cruelty.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—One of the more absorbing chapters in Dexter Fellows' autobiography, "This Way to the Big Show," deals with newspaper editors as he knew them at the turn of the century. In those turbulent days, he says, people were not afraid to hiss and boo, and when an irate citizen found offense at anything an editor had written, he went looking for him with a horsewhip or a pistol. For this reason, Dan Anthony, editor of the Leavenworth, Kas., Times, always kept a revolver in the right-hand drawer of his desk. And O'Brien-Moore, editor of the Tucson, Ariz., Citizen, also had a gun to defend what he wrote.

Erin O'Brien-Moore

It was the latter's name that sent us down to the bookstore for an extra copy of the book. O'Brien-Moore was the father of Erin O'Brien-Moore, who, as you might suppose, is the red-headed actress you admired so tremendously in "The Black Legion" and who is now making "The Life of Emile Zola" with Paul Muni.

WE DREW a ring around the enlightening paragraph and shipped the book on out to Hollywood to her. It will make a good addition to the library of this Irish daughter of so Irish a father. Incidentally, all the earlier O'Brien-Moores were editors in Ireland before they migrated to this country and became editors in Charleston, W. Va., and New Orleans.

Just before she got on the 20th Century Limited for the western journey I asked her how long she intended to be gone. . . . "Only as long as it takes me to make a certain amount of money," she declared. . . . Apparently it hasn't taken her long, because "Zola" will be through in about six weeks and she'll hurry back to Manhattan and her east side apartment, where a grinning, ebony maid, who hails from Georgia, is waiting to prepare endless menus of yams that drip honey, and fried catfish, and cornbread and hams dressed in cider.

THE apartment is one of those comfortable ones with lots of books autographed to "Erin Darling" by their authors, and with lots of always fresh-cut flowers. There aren't many pictures, but then the people encountered there are generally so interesting that you wouldn't have time to look at pictures anyway.

Christopher's Idea

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE doctor had come to see the little man, Willy Nilly, who had been put to bed by his animal friends because he had suddenly begun to sneeze and then had developed such a bad cold.

Christopher Columbus Crow, Rip, the dog, and Sweet Face, the lamb, had fetched the doctor. They had known where he lived, for often Willy Nilly had spoken of the doctor and his work as they had passed the house going through the village. But it had been difficult for them to make the doctor understand what they had wanted.

At last, however, Rip had given him an idea that Willy Nilly needed care.

"Yes," continued the doctor, "by putting you to bed at once your friends have saved you from being really ill. Now you must rest and stay indoors, and then I advise a holiday. You seem very tired to me. Yes, I think a vacation is just what you need."

"One thing after the other has been happening," cawed Christopher, "and I'm afraid my delay in coming back from the circus people caused you worry, too, Willy Nilly."

"What is he saying?" the doctor asked.

"He's afraid he is partly to blame for my being so tired," Willy Nilly answered. "But I know how I caught this cold. I worked in my garden through the rain a few days ago and didn't change afterward.

"And I probably need a rest because I've not had a holiday in a long time. Only I couldn't leave my animal friends. I wouldn't be happy off by myself."

"But I have an idea," cawed Christopher.

"Let's hear it," said Willy Nilly.

A Washington Daybook

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—The public in general found no reason for Senator Borah cutting loose on fascism the other day but when suddenly he vented his rage against the air-bombing of the Basque city of Guernica, those harsh words were sweet to the ears of 2,000 constituents.

These constituents are Basques, living in and around Boise, the senator's home city, and they form the largest Basque colony outside of Europe.

It would be silly to say the senator spoke out only because he wanted those 2,000 votes. In the first place he doesn't need them since he was re-elected last year in the face of the Roosevelt landslide by a majority so large that 2,000 votes mean little. That Basque colony is highly cherished in Idaho and be it truly said they live with vigor, save earnestly and spend wisely.

Hardened Lot

THE Basques and Borah moved in on Idaho at about the same time so have sort of grown up together, although Borah took to politics and the Basques to sheep raising.

Much of Spain is high and barren and living is tough but these Spanish Basques were hardened to the desert ways. It is true their careful living crowded some natives out of the sheep business, but it also must be recorded that few of them are found on railroad section gangs and still fewer on relief.

They go in for fine homes in the Spanish style and are clannish to a fair degree, but natives who can fathom their way of life share liberally in their business. They dance so hard their men are soused in sweat and their games are equally hardy, which may explain some of the troubles of Franco's columns around Bilbao.

Good Drinkers

THEIR drinking is also on the sterner side and two Driscoll brothers of Boise, lawyer and banker, have enjoyed the good will of the Basques partly because neither has been "put under the table" at the autumn fiesta, when the herders come in from the range.

Because Dean Driscoll, the lawyer, is plump and cocky they center their attentions on him and make him drink glass for glass with them of straight whisky. By slyly eating bread along with the whisky (some of the Basques keep him supplied as part of the fun), he has always managed to rise from the table under his own power while the Basques, taking their whisky neat, have gone down fighting.

Scouts Prepare for June Camp-o-ree

Throughout Ulster and Greene counties the Scout troops and other units are busy preparing for the first annual Camp-O-ree which will take place at the New York State Armory grounds in Kingston on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, June 4, 5 and 6. Thirty-seven units of the council have signified their intention of participating including all the troops in the Southern distrit, Rondout valley district, Western district, Mountain district, Saugerties district and Kingston district. In the Northern district at present there are only two doubtful troops. This means that between 600 and 700 Scouts will participate in this big three-day camp.

One of the features of the Camp-O-ree will be the series of exhibits which will be placed in the big indoor driving hall of the armory. Here some 40 booths will be erected and the exhibits will be many and varied. There will be handicraft, hobbies, camp material, historical scenes, Indian lore, and equipment, and many suggestions of the interests which boys take in every day life.

The program for the Camp-O-ree in general calls for arrival in Kingston during Friday afternoon, erecting of camp, cooking of suppers and making ready for the night. A 8 o'clock will come the opening camp fire and words of welcome from the local authorities. Saturday will be the busiest day. After breakfast will come a series of contests within each district camp. At 10:30 o'clock will come the finals with the inter-district winners. Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock will be the street parade with all troops participating. From 3 to 5 o'clock will come a two-hour series of demonstrations and exhibitions within the arena which is to be erected on the field. Saturday evening each district group will have its own camp fire and entertainment. On Sunday morning there will be opportunity to visit each others camp, to review the exhibits, etc. At 10 o'clock will come church services. The Rev. J. J. Manning, assistant pastor of St. Joseph's Church, this city, will have a field Mass for Catholic boys and the boys of other faiths will participate in a fellowship service. Immediately after dinner Sunday will come ground review of the entire camp and at 3 o'clock they will pull stakes and prepare to start for home.

The public is cordially invited to witness any or all parts of the Camp-O-ree. Special plans are being made for parking of cars and taking care of the heavy traffic at that part of the city.

This is the first time an effort has been made to bring together all of the units of the two counties and the enthusiasm is growing as the time nears.

RONDOUT — HUDSON NAVIGATION NEWS

The steamer, "Rensselaer", once one of the palatial vessels in the Hudson River Night Line's fleet, made her last trip down the Hudson last week. She was towed from Albany to New York, where she is to be broken up for scrap. The "Rensselaer", a sister ship of the "Trojan", was built in 1909 and recently retired after a quarter century of service.

The "Nailsea Tower" sailed down the Hudson river for the last time, ending a 24-year period of service. Her paint peeled and otherwise in most unshipshape condition, the boat loaded grain at Albany for Spain, after which it probably will be sailed to Glasgow and the junk heap. Under the British scrap and build policy, her owners will get a new "Nailsea Tower" for this one and another junked boat.

The steamer "Alexander Hamilton" of the Hudson River Day Line will open the excursion season on Saturday, May 22, when she will leave Kingston Point for New York at 7.30 a. m. A second excursion on the same boat will take place Sunday, May 23, beginning at the same hour. This excursion will be the first of a series planned by the Day Line as a result of the enthusiastic reception accorded two similar voyages last year.

Heavy rainfall over the week-end along the Mohawk and Hudson rivers closed New York's Barge Canal. Harvey O Schermerhorn, commissioner of canals and waterways, said both waterways had reached their high water crest but that field reports indicated operation of the canal would be impossible. "The Hudson above Troy is up greatly," he added, "the crest was nine feet above the level of the Troy dam and that means a lot of water." He predicted, however, a swift recession of the flood waters.

Annual Lawn Festival At Home For Aged

The annual lawn festival of the Home for the Aged in Ulster county will be held as usual at the Home on June 16. This event, originated by the Women's Board of Managers is really Open House Day, and the public is cordially invited to attend and to inspect the Home. No subscriptions will be solicited but numerous articles which have been donated will be for sale in various attractive booths.

Recently, due to the reports in the newspapers of a considerable legacy left the Home, the question has arisen in the minds of some, why the Home should need further support. As a matter of fact, this legacy will probably be about half of the sum originally reported, and furthermore, it may not be in the hands of the Home for possibly fourteen to sixteen months.

The cost of operating the Home amounts to over $12,000 a year, and the annual income from its total endowment fund is under $6,000 per year, so that even with the added income which will be realized from the Emma Schoonmaker legacy, it will still be necessary for the Home to secure contributions each year in order to avoid a yearly deficit.

The Board of Trustees wishes to thank all who have contributed to the support of the Home in the past, and cordially invites them to visit the Home on June 16.

Loomis DeWitt Myers Wed in New Jersey

The fireplace in the living room of the home of Mr. and Mrs G. Henry Nesslage, of 1049 Abbott Boulevard, Palisades, N. J., was banked with flowers and greens as the setting for the wedding of their daughter, Miss Lillian Nesslage, to Loomis DeWitt Myers, of Philadelphia, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Myers, of Kingston on Friday. The ceremony was performed at 8:30 o'clock in front of the fireplace with Rev. Finis S. Idleman, pastor of the Central Christian Church, New York, officiating.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Mrs H H Nesslage, of Mount Vernon, sister-inlaw of the bride, was matron of honor, the bride's only attendant.

The bride was attired in a dinner gown of pale pink satin, fashioned in princess mode, fitted to the hips, with a basque back, flowing full to the floor. The gown had a V-neck and short puffed sleeves. Her slippers were pale pink satin. She carried an arm bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

The matron of honor's gown was of aquamarine cotton lace, over pink satin. The gown had a high neck, with a small collar and was buttoned down the front, to the waistline. It was floor length, the bottom bound with aquamarine ribbon. The sleeves were puffed to the elbow. Her slippers were of matching satin. She carried an arm bouquet of spring flowers.

The ceremony was followed by a reception in the Nesslage home, during which the couple left on a wedding trip, the destination of which they did not disclose. On their return they will make their home in Allentown, Pa.

Lions Hear Talk On Highway Safety

Harold Swenson of Flushing, L. I. was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Lions Club Monday night.

Mr. Swensen gave an illustrated talk on traffic conditions as pertaining to safety, the title of his address being "Inertia." He talked of road hazards and dangers that menace both drivers and pedestrians, with some discussion of the mental reactions of the average driver to road signs.

Statistics were given from states that have license laws and those which have no such regulations. The speaker said accidents were more numerous in the latter states.

The junior patrol system was given high praise. It was stated that during the past two years where the system was in operation accidents among children were reduced some 14 per cent as compared with accidents to adults.

At the business session of the club officers were nominated. Two names were placed in nomination for the office of president of the club—Gordon Craig and Frank Reber being proposed. Election will take place at a later meeting.

FUN WITH NUMEROLOGY

Lots of fun is numerology—Carol and John agree.

But they agree on almost everything, numerology tells them. They're both Sixes. Having the same number makes them soul mates. And being Sixes, they're naturally agreeable, companionable folk anyway.

Numerology's good for a whole afternoon's or evening's amusement. It tells fascinating things about you through a study of your name.

Even the vowels in your name throw interesting sidelights on your character, numerologists say.

Is the first vowel in your name an "a"? Ah, a rugged individualist. You go your own sweet way, caring not a hoot what others may think.

Or is it "e"? You're flighty, moody, but never, never a bore.

Or is your first vowel an "i"? Inclined to be sedate and uppity, but your heart's in the right place.

When "o" is your first vowel you're happiest in the bosom of your family.

If "u" is the first vowel in your name it's responsible for your sunny, sociable nature.

Our 40-page booklet, SECRETS OF NUMEROLOGY, shows you how to turn your name into a number that reveals your inner nature. Find out your lucky days, your path of destiny. How adding a middle name can give you a luckier number.

Send 15c for our booklet, SECRETS OF NUMEROLOGY, to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Institute, 109 West 19th Street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet

Child Guidance

Nurse Helps Babies Hit The Bottle

"CHEF"

Down in the basement diet kitchen of Flower-Fifth Avenue Hospital in New York, bottled meals for infants are prepared in germ-proof fashion and kept in the refrigerator until feeding time.

FEAST

The bottle always gets an enthusiastic reception from babies like month-old Gloria who leans back and finishes in 10 minutes. Nurse tries to keep 'em from swallowing air with the milk.

AFTERMATH

When they do get air on their tummies nurse pats them gently on the back until it's all gone—a serious business, Gloria seems to think. Then it's back to the bassinet for a good sleep.

Fruit pies are likely to "run over" during baking. To prevent the drippings from becoming scorched and leaving a burned odor in the kitchen, place a pan directly under the pie. The pan, which may easily be washed, will catch the drippings.

ST. REMY.

St. Remy, May 18.—The friendly social will be held on Thursday, May 20, at 2:30 p. m., in the Sunday school room. A cordial invitation is given to all. The hostesses are Mrs. L. Van Vliet and Mrs. K. Sutton.

Mr. and Mrs. George Douglas of New York city were week-end guests of Mrs. Kathryn Sutton.

The C. E. will give their play, "Bashful Mr. Bobbs," on Friday night, May 28, at 8:15 o'clock.

Mrs. Roxie Wells entertained callers from Newburgh on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Van Aken of New Haven were recent guests of Mrs. Lorenzo Terpening and Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Van Vliet. S.

When you make your next layer or loaf cake, take out enough batter for four or five cup cakes. Bake them in small pans or paper cups and then save them to put in lunch boxes, since they keep better than individual pieces of cake.

Action to Recover Damages Begun by Passenger of Taxi

Mary Lucchese brings an action against Monroe T. Southard and P. J. Beichert, doing business under the name of Colonial Taxi Co., William Lawless, Elwood Reynolds, Forsyth & Davis Motor Car Co. and the General Credit Corp. in which she seeks to recover for injuries which she alleges she suffered on December 29, 1933, while a passenger in a taxi which was in collision with another car at the corner of Clinton avenue and Henry streets.

She contends that she had hired the cab to convey her from Clinton avenue to her home on East Chestnut street and that as the cab approached the junction of Henry and Clinton avenue it was in collision with a car operated by Reynolds which bore license plates issued to the Forsyth & Davis Motor Car Co., but which she alleges was being used by Reynolds in his business of the General Credit Corp. She also sues the driver of the cab, William Lawless.

The day of the accident it was slippery and icy and the contention of the owners and operator of the taxi is that the accident was caused by the negligent operation of the second car operated by Reynolds.

Plaintiff seeks money damages for personal injuries which she says kept her in bed for some three months.

The Credit Corp. denied that Reynolds was in its employ. Forsyth & Davis Motor Car Co. has not answered and does not defend. Flanagan & Kaercher appear for the plaintiff and Robert I. Rogin appears for the Credit Corp. Cashin & Ewig appear for Messrs. Southard and Beichert and William Lawless. Reynolds is not represented by counsel.

The Father and Son banquet held on Wednesday evening in the Clintondale Grange Hall was largely attended and greatly enjoyed. The Rev. Forrest Edwards from Suffern was the guest speaker. The dinner was served by the ladies of the Service and Hospitality Committee and the Graces of the Clintondale Grange, consisting of Mrs. Charles Schepmoes, Mrs. Mabel Mount, Mrs. Emma Cole, Miss Irene Sickler, Mrs. Cornelia Williamson, Mrs. Florence Coy, Miss Ruth Williamson, Mrs. William Barrett, Miss Vera Atkins, Mrs. Mary Katherine Coy and Mrs. Edith Ackhart.

SHOKAN

Shokan, May 17—Members of the Shokan summer resident colony here for the week-end included Mrs. Edmund Gearon, of Brooklyn. Mrs. Gearon had as her guests, Mrs. Allan F. Cook, Mrs. Josephine Chase and Mrs. Charles D. Williams.

Miss Gertrude Osterhoudt is getting along well, following an operation for appendicitis at a Kingston hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Adsit, of Saugerties, were numbered among the many out of town people calling in the hub of the reservoir country Sunday.

Mrs. Hans J. Cohn and son, Peter Stephan, came home Friday from a Kingston hospital.

Mrs. Raymond Osterhoudt, re-elected trustee of the Brown Station school, has engaged Mrs. Archie Ronk, of Kingston, to continue in charge of the school. Mrs. Ronk has successfully taught at Brown's for the past five years.

Hundreds of small streams coursed down the slopes of Tonche and Tice Ten Eyck Mountains Saturday as a result of the long rain which began Thursday evening. No damage was reported from the freshet although the larger brooks were out of their banks in several spots. Farmers, already late with their plowing, were forced to mark time until the ground dried out. Tree and grass growth revealed the beneficial effects of the wet spell long before the skies had cleared on Saturday.

Albert Starkweather, of Brooklyn, spent the week-end at his bachelor quarters in the village center.

Mrs. Alice Beesmer, of Saugerties, attended the Baptist preaching services here Sunday. Mrs. Beesmer conducted a large summer boarding house at Olive City about 30 years ago.

The members of the Ashokan baseball team have started playing on the Winchell lot near the Lenox Cemetery. It is reported that Carleton Krom, master mechanic at the Lyons garage, will not manage the team again this year.

There was little fishing done at the dividing weir Sunday, though quite a number of persons were strung out along the west basin shoreline to the west of this point. The high cement wall below the apron of the weir is partially submerged at this time and the water at this spot is very deep. Several row boats are still rocking idly at their moorings on the upstream side of the Beaverkill dyke.

Fred L. Weidner, widely known west Olive farmer, was a caller in the village center Friday.

Attending the preaching services in the Olive and Hurley meeting house Sunday were the following Boonville, Md., people: The Hon. Harvey White and Mrs. White. Mrs. Byron White and Mrs. Mary Claggett, all of whom are guests of Elder and Mrs. Arnold H. Bennett, of West Hurley. It was on Mr. White's farm of 500 acres that soldiers of General McClennan's army received their training before being sent to the battle fronts, and bullets used by the Union Army recruits still are occasionally picked up on the place.

A large stop sign has been painted on the pavement at the junction of Route 28 and the reservoir road to replace the one effaced by weather and traffic during the winter months.

Members of the Mt. Tremper Rural Cemetery Association from several distant communities gathered at Winchell's Hall Sunday afternoon for the annual business meeting of the association. Frank Van Etten of Port Ewen is president of the organization. A missing face this year was John D. Van Kleeck of Kingston, an active member, whose death took place since the last meeting.

Members of the A. Lauber family came up from New York to spend Sunday at their camp on the Louis Theil farm. The Laubers with commendable patriotism invariably unfurl to the mountain breezes a large American flag in the course of their stay here.

May 13, 1916, Salvatore Anziano, 40, a mason, employed by Contractor Michael Straub, was fatally injured while grouting anchor holes at the upper gate chamber of the reservoir. Anziano, who died one hour after his accident, had been employed by Mr. Staub for eight years. Survivors were a wife and four children in Italy.

Louis Theil, Shokan poultryman, is now serving his 10th year as trustee of School District No. 4. Mr. Theil's tenure of office and the principalship of Harrison Gridley, running simultaneously throughout a decade, would seem to establish some kind of a record in rural school leadership.

The spillway, of course, was the great drawing card for sightseers in the reservoir country Sunday. There was a mighty volume of water pouring over this unique barrier, while below the bridge was presented the awesome sight of millions of gallons thundering down over the rocky bed of the spillway. Equally impressive was the view of the torrent at the Stone Church bridge where the overflow from the east basin is confined to a narrow, rocky gorge before debouching into the Esopus creek below the main Ashokan dam. Incidentally, and rather curiously enough, the water in both basins has become greatly clarified since Friday's storm, this being in decided contrast to the roily conditions obtaining in the two basins earlier in the spring.

The death of Lyman Smith last Wednesday removed another resident of long standing in this section. Mr. Smith in earlier years had been a U. & D. R. R. section foreman. He established a new home in Ashokan at the time of the evacuation of the old villages in waterworks construction days.

Elder A. H. Bellows, pastor of the Olive and Hurley Baptist Church, is riding to and from his several preaching charges in one of the new Nash sedans.

The roast pig supper held in the Reformed Church basement Friday evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, was largely attended despite the rainy weather. The roast home grown pig in fact took so well with the crowd that late comers to the supper were obliged to content themselves with meat loaf as piece de resistance on the menu. Mrs. Fred Adsit and Mrs. William Tucelinq prepared the supper, and Mrs. Clyde Winchell and Miss Edna Longyear, of the dining room committee, were assisted with the serving by several girl pupils of the Shokan school.

The old post road between the aerator park and the Granville Bush place is now in fairly good condition for automobile travel. A fine job of grading was done on this WPA project but the pavement of shale is still pretty rough in spots. Beyond the Bush place, in Marbletown, the road apparently has been treated to a sort of preliminary WPA improvement. The ditching is a long way from being completed, and motoring over this stretch is a far from pleasant, though not unsafe, undertaking.

June Is Deadline In Soil Program

Ithaca, N. Y., May 18—Tuesday, June 15, is announced as the spring "deadline" for New York farmers to fill out work sheets to take part in the 1937 Agricultural Conservation Program.

The announcement comes from Earl A. Flansburgh, state executive officer, and the state agricultural conservation committee. After that date, he says, the time will be spent in verifying performance, in charge of county conservation supervisors. About 45,000 farmers have already signed work sheets.

The aim, he points out, is to enable farmers to receive payments earlier this year than last. This is possible only when checking begins earlier.

Flansburgh urges those who still wish to take part to sign up now rather than to wait and be caught in the usual last-day rush. He urges attention, especially, by those farmers who have adopted soil-saving practices this spring and who would become eligible for payments under the program. He says county workers are stationed at convenient places to help in filling out the work sheets.

Although the deadline is listed as June 15, many farmers in the state prefer to wait until fall to start pasture improvement. Others sow winter wheat and engage in soil-improving practices. To benefit such farmers who may decide to enter the program and were unable to sign up earlier, says Mr. Flansburgh, another opportunity is given, around September 1, for a brief sign-up. He urges them, however, to enter the program now to take advantage of more soil-conserving methods and to avoid later delays.

A project to can poi, the distinctive dish of the Hawaiian islands, is under way in Honolulu.

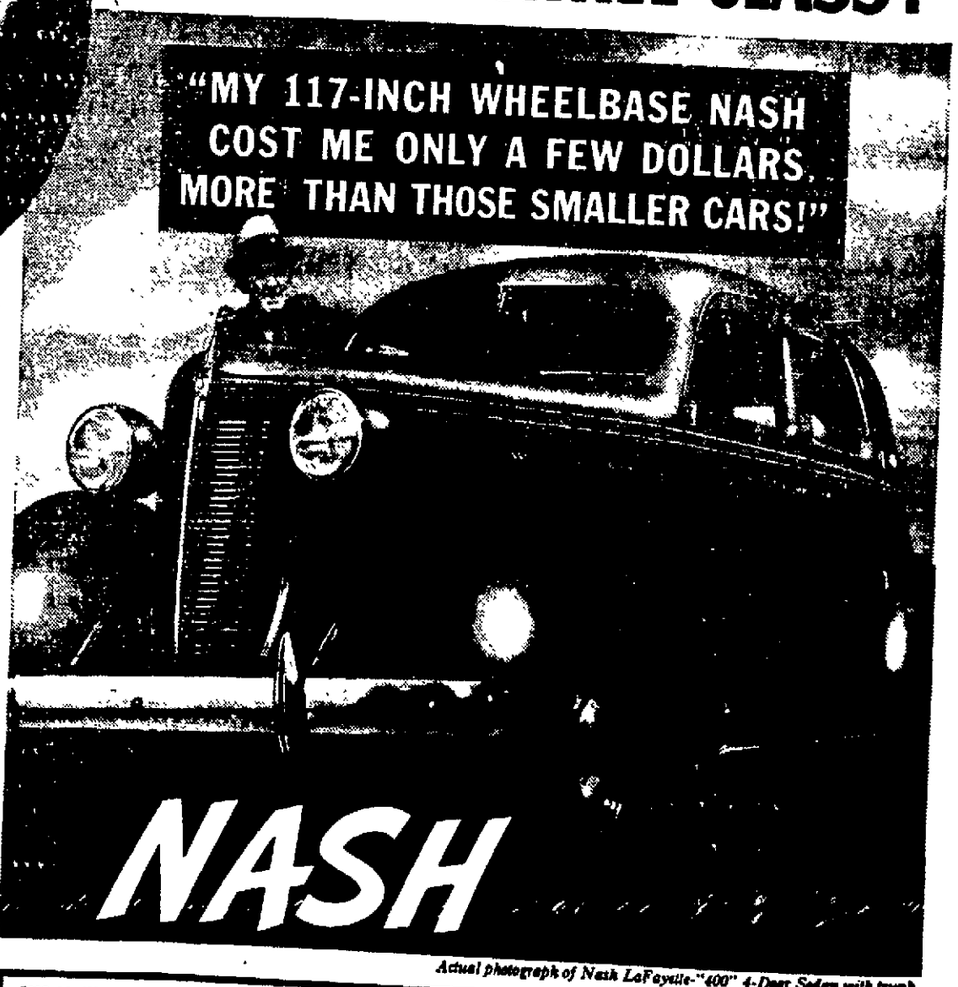
"FEELS GRAND TO BE OUT OF THE 'ALL THREE' CLASS!"

Here's why Harry V. Kegel bought a Nash LaFayette-"400"



Actual photograph of Nash LaFayette-"400" 4-Door Sedan with trunk

Talk to the people who are changing to Nash this year. Listen to them enthuse. Then go see this exciting car that's caused so much attention.

Here are just a few facts. It's a luxurious 117-inch wheelbase car. It has a 90 horsepower six cylinder engine. You get larger hydraulic brakes. Stronger all steel bodies. Extra-wide seats, more headroom and legroom.

There are dozens of other things you ought to know about the Nash LaFayette-"400"—and remember it delivers for just a few dollars more than any of the "All Three" small cars.

Let us show you the Nash Ambassador Six. It's even bigger than cars costing $200 more. Take a look at the 125-inch wheelbase Nash Ambassador Eight. We think it's one of the real "luxury cars" in America. See it. Drive it. Price it. Let us show you the X-Ray System—gives you all the facts about all the cars.

"FOR AS LITTLE AS $1 OR $2 A MONTH EXTRA you can get out of the "All Three" class. A check-up recently made in ten representative cities shows that the Nash LaFayette-"400" 4-Door Sedan with trunk DELIVERS for just a FEW dollars more than the similarly equipped 4-Door sedans of the "All Three" small cars. In many places, the SLIGHT difference in price amounts to just $1 or $2 a month extra on your time payments.

Ask about the convenient terms and low rates available through the Nash C. I. T. Budget Plan. Automatic Cruising Gear available on all Nash models at slight extra cost.

The assistant superintendents were Messrs. Lawless, LeFevre, Dunnigan, Clark and Adicks at the office which is now located in Margaretville.

During the years that passed Mr. Baldwin built up his debit very successfully His honesty and dependability of word, from which he never swerved, made him esteemed and respected by all with whom he came in contact. King, Queen "Step Down" for Ball

London, May 18 (AP)—Britain's newly crowned monarchs, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, revived an old royal custom today by accepting an invitation to a ball at the home of one of their subjects.

The king and queen planned to be among the 40 royal guests of the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland at Hampden House tonight.

Two kings and three queens will be present. Britain's rulers, Queen Mother Mary, King Farouk of Egypt and Queen Mother Nazli of Egypt.

A special ballroom has been erected in the duke's garden and the ballroom on the first floor has been converted into a supper room for royalty.

At a special showing of coronation pictures at Windsor Castle last night the little Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose clapped in delight when their pictures were shown.

Early-rising American visitors had a glimpse of Britain's old-time military pageantry today when the king's guard was mounted with full ceremony on horse guards' parade.

Hurley Truckman Has Narrow Escape

Louis Brown, Hurley truckman, had a narrow escape about six o'clock Monday evening, while dumping a load of rubbish from his truck into the old limestone quarry hole near the cemetery at Hurley.

Brown had dumped his load and had gotten into the seat of his truck preparatory to driving away when the edge of the bank gave way and the truck slid backward into the quarry hole, which is some 20 feet or more deep and filled with water to a considerable depth.

Fortunately he leaped to a place of safety just before the truck struck the water and escaped unhurt. Ralph Hiller with his truck pulled Brown's truck out of the quarry.

charged with being an accessory to the crime, likewise told County Judge J. Gordon Flannery, "I am willing to go back."

They were jailed here overnight before starting the trip back to Arkansas where prosecuting attorney George Hartje said he would demand the death penalty for both. Barring delay by the defense, Hartje said trial of the two would be started in circuit court at Lonoke next week. No grand jury action will be necessary under that state's new criminal code, he said.

"Cock and Bull Story"

Declaring that Bernice realizes now that Brockelhurst told her "a cock and bull story" of being "hounded" by police, Abraham Felton, father of the girl, refused to shake hands with the Illinois ex-convict in the county courtroom here

Brockelhurst held out his handcuffed hands but Felton stepped back saying

"I couldn't do that Lester You know I couldn't—not after what you've done to me"

In turn, Brockelhurst refused to accept Felton's offer to tell his parents in Rockford, Ill., of the Arkansas trial.

Desires Speedy Justice

"I don't want to see my father and mother at the trial I want to go alone and pay for what I've done I know I'll get the electric chair and I want to get it over with as quickly as I can," he told the elder Felton

Felton said his daughter was "through" with Brockelhurst "He told her parole officers were after him," the father explained, "and that the police of Rockford were hounding him until he married so he asked her to run away with him and get married"

Brockelhurst told the father in the courtroom "She didn't want to go with me but I made her"

"Don't do anything for me," he added "Do all you can for Bernice and I'll promise you I'll do everything to get her out of this trouble" Brockelhurst has admitted to police that he killed Gates, Albin Theander, Rockford tailor, and Jack Griffith, Fort Worth, Texas, tavern keeper, but declared the girl "had no part in any of them"

District Attorney John R Schwartz said that the girl in a statement admitted "being at the scene" of the Gates killing but that she denied that she was present at the other two.

Judge VanDevanter Retires June 2nd

Justice Field who served from 1863 to 1897 The famed Chief Justice John Marshall, who died in 1835, was beaten by a few months

Appears in Good Health

Despite his age, Van Devanter appeared to be in excellent health He delighted in tramping over a farm he recently bought in Marvland And he went duck hunting as often as he could

Only a few months ago he received considerable attention as a result of his failure to obtain a $1 hunting license stamp before blazing away at the canvas backs along the Potomac river in Virginia

He was accosted by a game warden who asked to see the stamp. The justice admitted he had none and pleaded ignorance of the law After the Rev Zebarney Phillips, chaplain of the Senate, had revealed Van Devanter's identity, the warden departed chuckling A stamp immediately was procured

Earlier, he attracted attention by his refusal to accept benefit payments under the Agricultural Adjustment Act which he helped to hold unconstitutional

His wife, who died in 1934, had owned several Montana wheat farms operated by tenants When the justice received the AAA benefit payments, he promptly returned the money

"Because I voted for the invalidation of AAA," he explained, "I do not feel I could accept the checks"

New York, May 18 (AP).—Favored stocks provided rallying moments for the market today, but numerous issues drifted into new low territory for the year or longer before finding support.

The session was livelier than yesterday notwithstanding occasional apathetic intervals. Near the final hour prices were well mixed, with power and light company leaders inclined to weakness.

Transfers were at the rate of about 1,000,000 shares.

Bonds were uneven. Wheat futures exhibited strength while other commodities shifted moderately in either direction.

Among the better share performers up fractions to a point—some slipped later—were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Steel Foundries, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Chrysler, General Motors, Yellow Truck, Western Union, Douglas Aircraft, Skelly Oil, Homestake Mining, International Nickel, Cerro De Pasco, Anaconda, Timken Roller Bearing, Loew's and Borg Warner.

At the worst J. C. Penney was off 4, Woolworth, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, du Pont, Allied Chemical 2 each, and Standard Oil of California, Deere, Oliver Farm, Barnsdall, American Can, Foster Wheeler, Public Service of N. J., American Tobacco "B" and Liggett & Myers "B" around 1 or so each. Some of these cancelled or reduced their declines subsequently.

Narrow but mostly down were Consolidated Edison, North American, American Telephone, Republic Steel, Goodyear, Goodrich, Macy, Sears Roebuck, Texas Corp., Kennecott, Standard Oil of N. J., and Electric Power and Light.

Hindenburg Fire Origin Placed at No. 4 Gas Cell Astern

Lakehurst, N. J., May 18 (AP).—The outbreak of the disastrous Hindenburg fire was definitely placed today inside gas cell No. 4 in her stern by a member of the crew who had all five gas cells in his line of vision when the first explosion occurred.

A brilliant light appeared inside the No. 4 cell simultaneously with the explosion, said the witness, Helmut Lau, a helmsman who was at his landing station in the lower vertical fin at the start of the disaster.

A short time after the bright reflection appeared, Lau told the Department of Commerce investigating board, he saw fire inside the forward bulkhead of the cell and then flames became visible on its outer surface.

The explosive sound, he testified later, was in his opinion the gas cell bursting at the top. He was 20 yards from the fire, he said.

Dennis Mulligan, a member of the board, commented: "He seems to be the individual who first saw the origin of the fire."

Lau's Account

Lau, who had charge of ballast, gas valves, engine telegraphy and water pumping installations, gave this account:

"I was facing port when I heard a muffled explosion, and saw inside the gas cell a bright reflection. It was on the front bulkhead of cell number 4.

"The first fire I saw was on the front side of cell four. The bright reflection was from the inside.

"It was red and yellow. There was smoke in it. The cell did not burst. It suddenly disappeared from the heat.

"The flame became very bright and the fire rose up to the top, more to the starboard. I saw that with the flame, aluminum and fabric parts were thrown up. The after part of the cell also caught fire.

"Parts of girders and molten parts started to tumble down from the top. It lasted only a fraction of a second.

"I jumped back to the girder where the telephone is. The ship was dropping rapidly.

Very Bright in Fire.

"During the descent, it was very bright in the fire and during the descent I felt no heat. Parts of fabric and metal were falling down constantly. I was looking astern and down. The ship cracked to the ground with great force and I fell to the right. Freund (Hans Freund, a rigger, whose landing station was nearby) fell over me.

"We were lying inside the outer cover and tried to get through but it was impossible. I looked up and saw Kollmer (another crew member) climbing out of the entrance hatch on the fin. Freund got out and assisted me. I looked around and saw Sauter (another of the crew) coming out with blood on his face and I helped him."

"I heard screaming in the wreck."

In his narration covering the moments before the first explosion, Lau said he could see gas cells 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 at the time because he was looking up.

SCHWALBACH'S AUTO HIT REAR OF CITY TRUCK.

HUDSON INDUSTRIALIST ASKS POLICE PROTECTION

Hudson, N. Y., May 18 (AP).—William Kadin, manager of the Mohawk Novelty Company factory here, said today he had asked Governor Lehman for state police protection at the plant, which has been picketed seven weeks.

Kadin said he had telegraphed the governor that the "situation is becoming serious. Local police are unable to cope with it."

The plant manager acted after Miss Millie Marrone, 25, a worker, had been hit on the shoulder by a stone through a window of the factory. She fainted and was taken in an ambulance to Hudson City Hospital. Later she returned to work, Kadin said.

The cutting of local asparagus is now getting well underway and an ample quantity of fresh high-quality asparagus is on the market, according to the Farm Bureau Marketing Service. The Farm Bureau makes every effort to let the general public know when local fruits and vegetables are available.

Ulster county has been increasing in the volume of all fruits and vegetables produced for several years. One of the largest asparagus farms in the eastern part of New York state is operated by John Delora at Tillson. Increased plantings each year will make it one of the largest in the state.

Short Term Notes

Albany, N. Y., May 18 (AP).—New York state placed a $50,000,000 issue of short-term notes on the market today for redemption through revenues anticipated after July 1, beginning of the fiscal year. Dated May 19, the notes mature in six months on November 19 and bear an interest rate of .75 per cent. Coincident with announcement of the sale, State Comptroller Morris S. Tremaine said the state's temporary debt will be reduced $250,000,000 by June 30. Will Picket Chicago.

Los Angeles, May 18 (AP).—Plans to picket "every theater in the Chicago area this week" were made by striking films craftsmen today in their campaign for a nationwide boycott. Effectiveness of the picketing was shown, officials said, by pleas they received from southern California theatre owners that the marchers be withdrawn. The leaders declared they had no intention of withdrawing the pickets and were pressing their campaign in the larger cities.

Took $1,207,000 Loss.

New York, May 18 (AP).—The late Col. Edward H. R. Green made vast sums of money during his lifetime but he took a loss of $1,267,000 on the sale of the Texas Midland Railroad in 1928. Testimony on the sale of the railroad was given today by Wilbur K. Potter, one-time business agent for the colonel and his mother, Mrs. Hetty Green, as hearings were resumed in the sharply-disputed contest over Col. Green's $70,000,000 will.

Pope Orders Speakers

Castel Gandolfo, May 18 (AP).—Pope Pius today ordered loudspeakers placed in the public audience chambers of his villa to magnify his failing voice. He received Cardinal Pacelli and several other prelates today.

National Guard Unit Gets High Ranking

gressive policy, should result in a model National Guard proficiency.

An excellently performed exercise in march conduct, occupation of position and operation of observation post and firing battery in action, followed by intensive inspection tests, demonstrated a battery well prepared for efficiency in field service.

"The Battery is accepting new recruits on Monday nights, the regular drill night. Any young man who may be interested in the work of the Field Artillery is cordially invited to inspect the unit's operation at that time," said Capt. Byrne.

Other High Ratings

Headquarters Battery and Combat Train also received a very high rating. The report on this unit under "remarks" stated: The excellently planned, constructed and highly appointed state armory is cared for and used in the advantageous manner for which it is adapted as to training and organizational promotion.

Appearance of unit above average.

Arms storage and safety provisions meet all requirements to the last degree.

Property storage facilities and system in care, arrangement excellent. Condition of property both organizational and individual equipment are for commendation.

The establishment of a well-equipped and systematized school for instruction of radio specialist, and the use of same under registered amateur license, to promote technical proficiency merits commendation for zeal and enterprise.

Present unit commander (Lieut. Steuding) has recently assumed command. He had initiated excellent measures for proficiency, which under a steady command policy and patience for progressive developments, should result in a collected, confident organization.

MARKETS FOR FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

New York, May 18 (AP)—(State Department Agriculture and Markets)—The arrival of 4 carloads from California resulted in lower wholesale cherry prices today. In a dull and weaker market, demand was slow, and the Chapman variety brought $2-$3.75 per crate, Burbank ranged from $2.60-$4.15 and Tartarian from $3.40-$4.65.

Despite light supplies of fresh fruits and vegetables from distant states demand being equally light, prices declined, especially on snap beans, cabbage, cauliflower, corn, lettuce, green peppers and spinach. Strawberry receipts were considerably more plentiful from Virginia and Maryland, but considerably lighter from Louisiana and North Carolina. Prices ranged widely because of great variation in quality. The finest, in quart baskets, sold from 12c-18c, some exceptionally fine quality and large size bringing as high as 20c-25c, while poorer, small size fruit sold from 6c-10c.

Rhubarb—New York, Hudson Valley, best, large size 2c-2½c, poorer and small 1c-1½.

Rev. Ahrens Resigns Walden Pastorate

The Rev. C. F. W. Ahrens, for the past seven years pastor of Denny Memorial Baptist Church in Walden, has announced his resignation, in order to devote his entire time to his printing business in Gladstone avenue in Walden. His resignation has been turned over to the state conference and members of the church board will negotiate for a new pastor.

The Rev. Mr. Ahrens has been in the ministry for 35 years. Prior to his pastorate in Walden he was in West Ashokan for 12 years. During his first three years in Walden he also handled the West Ashokan parish, preaching three times on Sundays and traveling more than 100 miles. He went to Walden during the depression and took the charge only to assist the church, which was without a pastor.

The Rev. Mr. Ahrens will now supply pulpits only on special occasions.

To each of us is given 24 hours a day, no more and no less. The use we make of these hours, the service we get out of them, is what determines our position in life. You have the same number of hours to invest as did the most successful men in history.

One of the Older Residents of the Boarding House—May I ask your profession?

New Comer—Sculptor.

Older Resident—Good! You're just the man we want. Would you mind carving this roast of beef?

The Purpose of Life

I am not the football of chance, nor
Am I predestined to woe,
Something within and divine tells me
It cannot be so.
Life, love and truth are of God, He
Has but one perfect plan—
To love and protect every one, and
To see His reflection in man.

—Grenville Kleiser

Prim Young Lady—Sir, remove your arms!

Fresh Suitor—Sorry, miss, but I can't. It isn't the kind that comes off.

Junior—Daddy dear, why do they call it the mother tongue?

Father—Well, Junior, just see who uses it the most!

Jerry—I call my new country home "Lumbago".

Man—Why?

Jerry—Because it has a creek in the back.

Preachers hold protracted meetings; evangelist conduct "campaigns".

Small Girl—Give me a bite of your candy, Junior.

Junior—Can't do it, but you can kiss me while my mouth's sticky.

READ IT OR NOT—

There are more patients suffering from mental diseases in the hospitals of the United States than from all other diseases combined.

An income tax bureau official had died, and a subscription was being raised in Wall Street for a wreath. The boss promised to give $5. A few days later one of the clerks called on the chief to collect the money. The chief handed him a $10 bill.

Clerk—You want $5 change, sir?

Boss (growling)—No. Keep the change and bury another income tax collector.

The Spendthrift

Whatever may be the wealth of your life, spend it every day;
The more that is used while you still live, the less will be thrown away.
You cannot conserve it, anyhow, no matter how carefully
You may lock it up, for that spendthrift, Death, possesses the master key.

Man—You should have seen the fish I caught last week. It was so big it pulled me into the water.

Friend—Got a good wetting, I suppose?

Man—Oh, no, thank goodness I landed right on top of the fish.

Doctor—Is your insomnia of long standing?

Recent Father—No; long-walking. Our baby has had the colic for the last three months.

The honeymoon is over by the time he gets her taught that salads are not food.

PREVIEWED

Today

Broadway: "Personal Property". Handsome Robert Taylor plus the glittering Jean Harlow make quite a team in the photodrama at the Broadway, the story of a young man who becomes the butler to a love seeking young lady. Created for laughs and romantic situations, the play is a tart and thoroughly enjoyable bit of nonsense, made first rate entertainment because of W. S. Van Dyke's direction. Reginald Owen is also in the cast.

Kingston: "Motor Madness" and "The Man Who Could Work Miracles." Motor boat racing is the subject of "Motor Madness" and the film fairly gasps its way through a string of hair raising moments with plenty of romance and intrigue thrown in for good measure. Allen Brook and Rosalind Keith are featured. "The Man Who Could Work Miracles" is a splendidly done screen version of the Wells story that concerns a man able to work miracles. A tiny fellow, he becomes the world's most powerful force, for there is nothing he cannot do. Roland Young is starred and this British made film is really worth seeing.

Orpheum: "Arizona Mahoney" and "Navy Spy." Zane Grey's comical tale of the west becomes laughable stuff on the Orpheum screen with Joe Cook in the starring role and supported by Buster Crabbe, June Martel and Robert Cummings. "Navy Spy" is the other feature, an espionage story, with Conrad Nagel and an unimportant cast.

Tomorrow

Broadway "When Love Is Young." The new Universal continues to turn out glamour tales of youth and romance in this gay and tuneful musical with Kent Taylor, Jean Rogers and Walter Brennan featured. Virginia Bruce, the star of the attraction, is at her best in this light drama and Hal Mohr's direction is adequate.

Kingston: "Women of Glamour" and "Outcasts of Poker Flat." Virginia Bruce is to be seen at the uptown theatre in conjunction with her appearance at the Broadway, this time in the role of a girl who makes beauty a business. She is supported by Melvyn Douglas. "Outcasts of Poker Flat" is the movie version of the Bret Harte story with Preston Foster starred and supported by Jean Muir.

Orpheum: "Green Light." Man's struggle to overcome his handicaps and his failings is well expressed in the movie at the Orpheum. Taken from the novel of Lloyd Douglas, it is the story of a young doctor who takes full blame of a mistake committed by an older surgeon and how this changes his life is interesting screen material. Errol Flynn and Anita Louise are featured.

Life Insurance Week.

Life insurance underwriters in this city, and about 1,000 other cities and towns throughout the United States, are observing Life Insurance Week this week with an educational program which is broader in scope than any of the four previous annual observances devoted to informing the public of the value and purposes of life insurance. One hundred and forty life insurance companies are cooperating in the campaign, the principal feature of which is newspaper advertising to appear during the week in 401 cities. A total of 734 daily newspapers are on the advertising schedule.

HERE'S SPEEDY RELIEF FOR Tender, Aching, Swollen Feet

Your feet may be so swollen and inflamed that you think you can't go another step. Your shoes may feel as if they are cutting right into the flesh. You feel sick all over with the pain and torture; you'd give anything to get relief.

Two or three applications of Moone's Emerald Oil and in fifteen minutes the pain and soreness disappears. A few more applications at regular intervals and the swelling reduces.

And as for Soft Corns and Callouses a few applications each night at bed time and they just seem to shrivel right up and scale off. No matter how discouraged you have been, if you have not tried Emerald Oil then you have something to learn, and best of all any offensive odor is gone for good. —Adv.

MOTHER HELD IN 'PICNIC SLAYING'

Mrs. Helen Tiernan, 28, an attractive blond widow, is shown in the custody of New York police who claimed she admitted the brutal assault of her two small children in the woods near Brookhaven, N. Y. Her 8-year-old daughter was killed, but the son, Jimmy, 5, survived. Police said the woman explained she committed the acts because her small flat was not large enough to accommodate the man she loved.

Mrs. Tiernan's "Confession" Says Apartment Too Small For Both Children and Lover

New York, May 18 (AP).—Police disclosed today the full confession of how Mrs. Helen Tiernan allegedly killed with knife and fire her seven-year-old daughter and attempted to kill her four-year-old son, because "there wasn't room enough" in her 3-room apartment for the comely, blond widow and her Greek sweetheart.

The mother, 25, is held on a charge of homicide, while her suitor, George Christodulus, 30, is accused of acting in concert with her.

The mother's confession, made public by Assistant District Attorney Salvatore Consentinon accused Christodulus of plotting with her the deaths in a lonely thicket on Long Island's south shore where the children were taken on the promise of being given a picnic.

Pacing his cell at police headquarters Christodulus muttered, as Mrs. Tiernan's purported confession was read to him, "I did not. I never done that.' '

Says Lover Originated Crime

But, her confession, as read by the assistant district attorney, said that he suggested the crime and struck the first of a rain of hatchet blows which brought first blood in the gruesome tragedy.

The body of Mrs. Tiernan's daughter, Helen, was discovered Sunday, only a few hours after she was killed, near Brookhaven, L. I. Her throat was slashed, the head bruised, and the clothing and parts of the body burned.

Nearby was the boy, Jimmie Tiernan, his throat cut but still alive. He is expected to recover.

Consentino's acount of Mrs. Tiernan's purported confession quoted her as saying:

Quite an Argument.

"George and myself met over in my apartment last Thursday. George and I had quite an argument. He wanted to know when he were going to be married. I said I didn't know.

"He said, 'What did you do about the children?'

"I said, 'I went to the child welfare to see about placing them in a home but they told me that it could not be done, because I was physically able to support them and that I had a position.'

"George said, 'Let's get rid of them. Take them out to the island.'

"I said, 'But what will we do with them out there?'

"He said, 'You've got an axe, haven't you?'

The alleged statement by Mrs. Tierman then quoted Christodulus as saying:

"Then you can get rid of them."

"I said, 'What, hit them with the axe?'

"He said, 'Yes'."

Told Them of Picnic.

Consentino said the couple then planned to tell the children they were taking them on a picnic to Brookhaven, taking along a hatchet, a bread knife, a pair of scissors and a bottle of gasoline.

On Saturday morning, the statement related, Mrs. Tiernan put the weapons in a suitcase and told the children it contained their picnic lunch.

Consentino said the statement told of the mother and children meeting Christadulus near Brookhaven and of driving with them to a woods.

Kids Happy, Picking Flowers

Little Jimmy and his sister Helen were happy, playing about and picking flowers.

"I hesitated," Mrs. Tiernan was quoted as saying.

"I didn't want to go through with it.

"Finally little Helen came over near where I was. She stopped to pick a flower. Jimmy was a little distance away.

"George grabbed the hatchet and hit Helen on the head three times. Helen fell over on her back. I took the knife and cut her throat. Helen screamed. Jimmy heard her and came running toward me, crying 'Mommy, Mommy, what happened?'

"George struck him twice with the hatchet on the head. When he fell I cut his throat with the knife. I took the gasoline from the suitcase, poured it on the clothes of Helen. George lit a match and put it on the gasoline.

"I took the children's shoes off and some of their clothes so they couldn't be traced. I took them home.

"George drove me to the railroad station. I came home by myself and he came home in the car.

'Joe Hurt Us'

Slashed and burned, this 3-year-old boy, apparently left for dead in woods near Brookhaven, N. Y., recovered in a hospital enough to tell investigators that "Joe hurt us." The body of his sister, burned and beaten, was found by a couple strolling through the woods.

S. PLANS TO CUT FARM FIRE LOSSES

ll Last Year 3,500 Lives and $100,000,000 Loss.

Washington. — Due to enormous losses on farms, the Depart- nt of Agriculture has instituted program designed to reduce the aths and damage from fires in ricultural areas. Here the greater rt of the country's loss occurs be- use of the absence of fire protec- n comparable to city control.

The expert in charge of the work the department is Dr. David J. ice who is directing research rk on farm fire prevention in the emical engineering division of the reau of chemistry and soils.

"The loss from fires on farms d in the rural sections of the ited States," said Dr. Price, "is ore than 60 per cent of the total tional fire loss; and in 1936 aced a $16 'fire tax' on every rm in the country."

More than 3,500 lives were lost in rm fires last year, while property mage has been approximately ed at $100,000,000 by Department Agriculture experts. The Struc- ral Clay Products Institute, okesman for the brick and build- g tile industry with headquarters Washington, is co-operating with partment engineers in advocat- g fire-proof construction on farms.

"It is highly important that farm ildings be of fire-proof materials," id J. J. Cermak, secretary of the stitute. "Usually, a fire on a farm eans total destruc n because of e remoteness of fire - fighting gencies. The great loss of property d even of life in farm fires last ear demands that prompt steps e taken to curb the wasteful prac- e of exposing isolated farm struc- res to the hazards of uncontrolla- e fire. The best way to do this is build with fire-proof material. ire-proof construction makes un- ecessary the wide separation of rm buildings to prevent the spread flames, thus making for more mpact and efficient farm opera- n and less loss of land to cultiva- n."

The institute reports that brick d building tile are coming into creasing use for barns and silos, well as hog, sheep houses and her farm buildings.

arantula Bite Holds No Fear for Zoologist

Minneapolis.—John A. Cederstrom, ology instructor at the University Minnesota, is the university's un- ficial tarantula keeper.

Excited grocers who have found a rantula spider in a stalk of ba- nas are referred to Cederstrom.

"They keep coming in, five or six ery year," Cederstrom said. "Ev- one who finds a tarantula seems think he has to turn it over to the iversity."

The instructor explained that ei- er he is immune to the bite of the spider or its sting is not as poi- nous as is popularly supposed. He s been bitten three or four times ith no more ill effects than that of mosquito bite.

Cederstrom permits tarantulas to awl contentedly on his white lab- atory jacket.

"I just put them in jars and watch em," Cederstrom said.

He explained that they escape oc- sionally by pushing off their jar vers and he has to turn his office side down to recapture them.

The instructor believes the taran- las in laboratory jars become mesick for their banana stalks. any starve themselves to death, said. Some specimens eat noth- g for months, but drink water. Their favorite food is grasshop- rs, with cockroaches second hoice.

State Farmers May Not Sell Cider

Albany, N. Y., May 18 (AP)—New York state farmers may make hard cider but they mustn't sell it.

It isn't a "legal beverage" under the State Alcoholic Beverage Control Law, Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., ruled today.

The opinion was sought by Captain John D. Judson, chief executive officer of the State Liquor Authority, after state police reported the sale of hard cider in a rural section of the state.

The opinion added there is nothing in the law that forbids the making of hard cider nor anything in the law that forbids the sale or the giving away of cider before it turns hard.

In Police Court.

Mary Moore of 49 Cedar street, arrested Monday on a charge of disorderly conduct, was fined $5 in police court today. Charles Bennett of 11 Gill street, charged with having a slot machine in his possession, was given a suspended sentence and the machine ordered destroyed.

Where Is She?

Police of several states have been asked to look for Mary Elizabeth Beers (above), 24-year-old Brooklyn nurse, who has been missing since May 1.

Valley Sunday School Association

Stone Ridge, May 17—Rondout Valley Sunday School Association rally. The Hurley Reformed Sunday School entertained the Rondout Valley Sunday School Association for their spring rally on Friday evening May 14, at 8 o'clock. Although the rain teemed unceasingly about 200 were present from Napanoch, Kerhonkson, Krippiebush, Stone Ridge, High Falls, Bloomington, Port Ewen and Hurley.

The program opened with a prelude by the organist followed by congregational singing of "How Pleasant How Divinely Fair." The Rev. Harold F. Shadewald of Kerhonkson Reformed Church gave the invocation. The scripture was read from the second chapter of Philippians by the Rev. Ben Scholten of Accord Reformed Church.

The Rev. Eugene Crabb of Napanoch M. E. Church gave a very impressive prayer.

The Rev. C. C. Chilton, pastor of entertaining church most graciously welcomed the association and stated if a rainy night service could bring such a large crowd perhaps he better have his regular service in the evening rather than in the morning.

The junior choir of Hurley church rendered "Oh Hear the Message" in a very able manner. The roll call, reading of minutes and treasurers report was followed by the appointing of the committees by the president, Charles Bell of Kerhonkson. Percy Gazlay and Roy Ransom on the resolution committee, Mr. Bernstein and Mrs. Harry Snyder on place committee and the Rev. Clarence Howard, the Rev. Eugene Crabb and the Rev. Harold F. Shadewald on the nominating committee. The Rev. Ben Scholten as dean of the Teachers Training Class of Rondout Valley reported it had been decided they must get at least 40 to register in order to finance the school and there would be no state teacher. The Rev. Roscoe Strivings, former president of the school, having moved 100 miles away it would be necessary to elect a new president.

A missionary playlette with Miss Francis Pine as leader was very effectively rendered by talent from Stone Ridge M. E. Church. The leading part was taken by Miss Frances Pine. The president announced that Daniel Lee, who was to have been the guest speaker, was suddenly taken ill and in the hospital making it necessary for him to obtain another speaker on very short notice and the Rev. Frederick G. Baker, new pastor at the Stone Ridge M. E. Church had kindly consented to speak. The Rev. Mr. Baker spoke from the 29th chapter and 18th verse of Proverbs, "Where there is no vision the people perish."

The collection was followed with offertory prayer by the Rev. Oscar Kirck of Kerhonkson. The place committee reported an invitation was given the association to hold their fall rally at Bloomington Reformed Church. The invitation was accepted.

The following officers were elected for the year: President, L. C. Dixon, in place of Charles Bell, who resigned after one year of faithful service; vice president, Charles Bell; secretary and treasurer, Miss Marguerite Randegger and corresponding secretary, Frances Pine.

The Rev. Ben Scholten was elected president of the Teacher's Training School.

The attendance banner was again presented to the Cottekill Reformed Sunday School of which Mrs. Harry Snyder is superintendent. Cottekill received 79 per cent, and Kerhonkson Reformed was second with 77 per cent.

Miss Randegger read the minutes of the meeting after which the Rev. Harold Hoffman, of Stone Ridge, pronounced the benediction.

Opinions Differ On Business Gains

Washington, May 18 (AP).—The Bureau of Economics reported today the business upswing has levelled off, but commerce department officials said the industrial pace has quickened in recent months.

The bureau said in a monthly survey:

"The market upswing in business which began late last summer apparently is not continuing."

Whether the development will prove a minor setback or a serious interruption in the business upturn, it said, will depend on the amount of increase in private spending for construction and capital goods.

"Evidence pointing to large increases in business for rehabilitation and expansion of productive facilities in the near future is not particularly convincing", the bureau continued.

"Residential building prospects for this year are less promising than before the recent large increases in construction costs."

Part of the present business slack may be due to expansion of consumers goods lines at a faster clip than the construction and capital goods, it added.

Bureau statistics showed that production of such consumer goods as cotton, wool shoes, gasoline and tobacco for the first quarter of 1937 climbed over the same period a year ago and equalled or topped 1929 levels.

Gas Dealers Plan To Peg Gas Prices

At a meeting of the recently organized Ulster County Retail Gasoline Dealers' Association, held in the city hall Monday evening, it was decided to peg the retail gas price on May 27, and agreed to give no discounts after that date.

It was stated that a survey had been made of retail gas prices in Ulster county and that price cutting was being carried on in the area north of Newburgh and south of Saugerties, but full prices were being maintained elsewhere.

A. M. Van Gelder of this city was named as temporary president of the association, which will meet again next Monday evening.

Blockmen Lose to Cornwall by 4-1

New York Military Academy's racqueteers trimmed the Maroon and White netmen at the Cornwall courts yesterday afternoon by a 4-1 count. Coach M. Joseph Block's court squad displayed greatly improved form against the power prep school combine, but went down to their second defeat of the current season. Cavorting on the fast surfaces of the downriver academy, the locals flashed spurts of clever tennis but fell before the greater steadiness of the military men. The doubles duo was not held due to rainfall, with the five singles matches the deciding factor in the final score.

George Rifenbary, local No. 5 man, came through with his initial match victory on the court by defeating Fisher by a 6-1, 6-2 tally in a surprise verdict. Rifenbary's win was the locals sole match victory and marked the first of the season for the local squadron. Billy Newkirk, blond haired youngster, extended Whiten, Cornwall No. 4 man, to three sets by taking the second by a 6-3 score after dropping the first 7-5. Whiten finally edged the local recruit in the decisive third set by a hard-fought 8-6 margin. George Svirsky and Kozlowski, of N.Y.M.A., waged two sets of 8-6, 8-6 competition with the localite also finally succumbing. Coach Wood's top-ranking stars were too much for the localites No. 1 and No. 2 with Gale beating Bernie Gordon by a 6-2, 6-1 margin and Art Jones going down before Cooley by a 6-3, 6-2 count. Rainfall eliminated the doubles events with Kingston showing greatly improved form in their second joust of the season.

The mayor's industrial committee boxing card for Friday night at the municipal auditorium is featured by the five round scrap between Mario Severino, Schenectady featherweight star, and Roy Collier, Albany's gift in the same class to the Adirondack Division of the A. A. U.

Victories by both scrappers over Kingston's Kid Chappie, who is not on the card for the first in a long time, was the means of prompting the industrial committee to match them for May 21, and the result is expected to turn into one of the best leather duels ever presented at the auditorium.

Besides being a clever boxer, Collier is well qualified as a strong puncher, as he displayed in two bouts here with Chappie. Severino is the type that bores in, flailing away with both hands, and can stand a lot to send home the wallops he wants to put over.

Ben M. Becker, chairman of the boxing department in the Adirondack A. A. U., is of the opinion that the match will furnish plenty of thrills, and hopes to see a record attendance to witness it.

Supporting the match is a list of pairings featuring Johnny Bileski against Johnny Tinsley of Peekskill, heavyweight brother of the well known Joe Tinsley, pro scrapper; Jackie Filkins, West Point, against Tony Cava of Peekskill, and other flashy amateurs.

The card in full:

Mario Severino, Albany, vs. Roy Collier, Albany, 5 rounds, featherweights.

John Bileski, Schenectady, vs. John Tinsley, Peekskill, heavyweights.

Jackie Filkins, 138, West Point, vs. Tony Cava, 135, Peekskill, 5 rounds.

John Leadbitter, 132, West Point, vs. Sally Calienda, 138, Peekskill.

Tony La Rocco, 140, Kingston, vs. Billy Pelez, 144, Albany, 3 rounds.

Johnny Caster, 132, Highland, vs. Sally Nardillio, 145, Albany, 3 rounds.

Steve Castellano, 142, Highland, vs. John Thomas, 142, Albany.

Maxie Trains for Braddock Bout

Speculator, May 18.—Max Schmeling, the big German heavyweight, is working hard every day in preparation for his scheduled 15 round bout against James J. Braddock, heavyweight champion of the world, at the Madison Square Garden bowl, in Long Island City, on June 3. Max is already in fine fettle and confident that he will score over Braddock and capture the heavyweight title. In fact the German boxer expects to stop the present title holder and insists that he will stiffen the Irishman much easier than the night he knocked out Joe Louis.

Schmeling is hitting harder than ever and his spar mates are receiving some rough treatment. Stanley Ketchell, a hard hitting youngster, stepped in with Max this afternoon for three rounds and for a time it looked like real fight. Ketchell tried to trade punches with the big German, but had to pay dearly for his rashness. Ketchell did manage to reach him with one stinging right to the chin, but Max immediately went to work on Stanley and nearly tore his head off with two short left hooks to the chin.

Jerry Johnson, another sparring partner, gave Max a good workout for three heats, but he also had to take some hard licks about the face and body before the day was over. Schmeling will stick to his knitting right up to a day before the bout and hopes to be in the best shape of his career for the big championship battle against James J. Braddock.

When Joe Vosmik was told last winter that he had been traded by Cleveland he made the usual announcement:

"I am mighty happy to be traded to the St. Louis Browns."

His remark was ttaken with a grain of salt. Most players say the same thing when shunted to new pastures. Just why Joe should be happy to leave his native Cleveland, where he grew up and learned to play baseball on the sandlots, to join the lowly Browns, was hard to understand.

Vosmik had a poor year in 1936. After having been runner-up to Buddy Myer of Washington for the American League batting title in 1935 Joe slipped below the .300 mark, hitting .287. Perhaps the home-town fans, prone to take it out on the perennially disappointing Indians, got under his skin. Anyway, when he said he was "happy" he was sincere.

Very likely Vosmik was anxious to get to new pastures to make his comeback. He is a real .300 hitter and, at 26, should be at the very peak of his ability.

He reported to Manager Rogers Hornsby this spring determined to make Cleveland fans regret the Indian management ever let him go. He started busting fences at San Antonio, Tex. He kept up during the exhibition games. When the season got under way there was no sign of a letdown.

The fine hand of Rogers Hornsby, one of the greatest hitters baseball has produced, can be seen in Vosmik's return to form. Hornsby is a wizard at detecting faults in a batter's style. He lost no time in putting Vosmik on the right track.

Tagging Major League Bases

(By The Associated Press.)

If Washington's Senators today are resting at the bottom of the American League, despite a percentage 18 points better than that of the sixth-place Phillies in the National, it is no fault of right-hander Jimmy Deshong.

When he set down the Red Sox yesterday with seven hits, 4-3, it was his fourth straight victory since he went in against the Cleveland Indians on May 4 and turned in a winning eight-inning relief job.

His flinging yesterday overshadowed anything the Philadelphia Athletics could do as they swung back to the top of the standing with a 3-2 victory over the New York Yankees and was fully as good as Lanky Bill Lee's elbowing that gave the Cubs a 5-2 decision over Cincinnati's Reds. Only these three games were on the big-league schedule yesterday.

Deshong, former Yankee hurler now in his second season with the Nats, appeared in 34 games last year, won 18 and lost 10. He seems well on his way to an equally successful 1937 campaign.

Al Simmons' third homer and Joe Kuhel's three singles paces the Senators' nine-hit attack yesterday on Wes Ferrel, who lost his fourth game of the year.

It was an unfortunate day all around for the Red Sox, who join the other Eastern American League teams in meeting the inaugural invasion by western contenders. Manager Joe Cronin, the team's leading hitter, went to the hospital before the game started when he was cut on the cheek by a ball thrown by Pinky Higgins, his third baseman.

To make matters worse, Rick Ferrell, Wes' brother and battery mate, was clipped by a foul tip from Jesse Hill's bat in the eighth and had to retire for first aid.

While the Senators were climbing nearer the idle St. Louis Browns and dropping the Red Sox into fourth place, the Athletics got an upward push in their first-place battle with the the Yanks. The winning runs clattered across the plate in the eighth inning when Bill Dickey, trying to catch Bob Johnson on a double steal, heaved the ball into left field.

The A's also got the benefit of seven-hit, seven-strikeout pitching by Lynn Nelson, one-time Cub flinger, while they brought the Yankee mound ace, Lefty Gomez, down to the .500 level with three victories and three defeats.

Lee was the hurdle that kept the Reds from sweeping their three-game series with Chicago, giving the Rhinelanders a meager six hits. Four bases on balls issued by Lloyd Moore and one by Ray Davis gave the Cubs their first run. Five hits off Davis and Lee Grissom, plus an error produced four more tallies in the seventh and eighth.

YESTERDAY'S STARS.

By the Associated Press.

Bill Lee and Lonny Frey, Cubs—Lee tamed Reds with six hits and gave only two bases on balls; Frey's double and triple drove in three runs.

Lynn Nelson, Athletics—Entered game in first inning as relief pitcher and held Yanks to one run and fanned seven, as A's regained lead with 3-2 triumph.

Jimmy Deshong and Al Simmons, Senators—Former set down Red Sox with seven hits to win fourth game of season, 4-3; Simmons' third homer of year accounted for two runs.

CLERMONTS SCORE WIN OVER TELCOS BY 13-12

The Clermonts defeated the Telcos, 13-12, in the softball league contest Monday evening, Kelly and Sinsapaugh featuring at bat for the Clermonts.

K. H. S. Baseball Team at the Bridge City Wednesday

The Maroon and White diamond cavorters will oppose Poughkeepsie High School's nine in a return clash tomorrow afternoon at the Athletic Field at 3:30. Kingston has a winning streak of three straight to date, having conquered the Bridge City boys last week by a 6-3 score. Poughkeepsie has captured six contests out of eight and tomorrow's joust should be a well played affair. Coach Sam Kalloch of the down-river brigade will probably turn Vinnie Stearns, southpaw star, on the locals who will have Charlie Bock doing mound duty. Poughkeepsie captured both of last season's contests but Kingston will endeavor to sweep the current series tomorrow.

The Maroon went to work on the Kallochmen with a vengeance in the first clash last week, crashing out 15 hits. Tommy Maines paced the attack on Munson and Stearns, veteran pitching duo, with 4 hits including a triple and double and drove in three runs. Kingston trailed until the sixth inning when four successive doubles brought home three tallies to sew up the old ball game. Munson, starting pitcher, was routed and the locals fell on Stearns for two more in the seventh for good measure. Gillen, slugging first sacker, is the powerhouse of the Bridgers with Captain Jim Kelleher and Bill Beal rated as good hitters. Tomorrow's match should be more closely contested than the initial meeting. The probable starting lineups:

Poughkeepsie—Whitesell, cf; McDonald, 2b; Kelleher, ss; Gillen, 1b; Beal, c; Peluse, rf; W. Whalen, lf; Green, 3b; Stearns, p.

Kingston—Coley, 2b; Van Derzee, ss; Ashdown, lf; Maines, 3b; Bock, p; Stoll, c; Schneider, cf; Struble, rf; Halstein, 1b.

Richmond Varsity Hurler Looks Good

Richmond, Va., May 18 (AP).—Bucky Jacobs, University of Richmond pitcher whose ambition is to play baseball in the major leagues, has three no-hit performances in five weeks to back up his claim for attention.

The diminutive Bucky first broke into baseball's Hall of Fame at the expense of Virginia Tech, one of the stronger Southern Conference clubs.

A week later, he repeated against the usually hit-worthy Hampden-Sydney nine.

That brought the big league scouts a-running, but they were slow to take to Jacobs because of his lack of heft.

He showed them again yesterday that a 158-pounder can put a lot of "stuff" on a baseball when he tossed his third no-hitter against Virginia Military Institute.

Jacobs has won 19 games and lost only one in three years of varsity pitching with Richmond University.

Apple Festival Praised

Albany, N. Y., May 18 (AP)—State Agriculture Commissioner Peter G. Ten Eyck expressed the opinion today that western New York's apple blossom festival now ranks with the most impressive in the nation. Ten Eyck announced that eight counties and 74 communities will take part in the 1937 festival at Brockport Saturday.

City Baseball League Opens at Athletic Field Tonight, 6:15; Mayor to Toss Out First Ball

This evening at 6:15 o'clock, the City Baseball League will get under way for the season, with Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman tossing out the first ball to start the game between two sets of champions—the Hedrick Brewers and Berardi A. C.

Last year the Hedricks, under the direction of Jimmy DeCicco, won the championship of the city loop, and in 1935, with Johnny Berardi at the helm, the East Kingston tossers copped the pennant.

Because of their championship accomplishments, Secretary Johnny Hartman of the City League, matched the two clubs for the inaugural of the 1937 season this evening, and the result is expected to be a contest packed with plenty of diamond thrills, witnessed by more than 1,000 fans.

Although the managers have not announced starting lineups, it is presumed that Julius Chick will pitch and George Zadany, catch, for the Berardi club.

Joe Brown, hurling ace of "Farmer" McDonald's Hedricks, probably will get the flinging assignment for the brewers, with Joe Gardner as his catcher.

The rosters of the contesting clubs in the opener are:

Hedricks—Phil Komosa, Joe Brown, Milly Berardi, Bing Van Etten, Ky Embree, Jack Dodge, Johnny Quest, Bob Bush, Joe Gardner, Bob McLean, C. Travallo, Gil Kelder, Al Short, Norm Niles and Bob Zoller.

There will be a meeting tonight in the city hall at 7 o'clock to check over all arrangements for the opening of the league tomorrow.

Portions of the constitution of interest to the teams and fans are:

Article 2, membership—Sec. 2. The roster of each team shall be limited to 15 players.

Sec. 3. The names of the 15 players submitted to the secretary of the league must be carried through the first half.

By-laws.

Rule 5. Games shall be scheduled for 6:15 and any team not having at least eight men on the field by 6:30 p. m. shall automatically forfeit the game. In case of a forfeit, on the field, the players of either team refusing to play an exhibition game shall automatically forfeit the right of their team to collect the deposit of good faith at the end of the season.

Rule 13. Any teams desiring to postpone games must notify the secretary at 2 p. m. the day preceding the game.

GOLDEN PANTHERS WILL CONDUCT MIGHTY DRIVE

Pittsburgh, May 18 (AP) — Pittsburgh's Golden Panthers are preening in the springtime for another mighty football drive next fall.

The 1937 edition of Dr. John Bain Sutherland's football array will vary in only three places from the 1937 powerhouse which swept through Washington in the Rose Bowl classic.

The Panthers this year will play in order: Ohio Wesleyan, West Virginia, Duquesne, Fordham, Wisconsin, Carnegie Tech, Notre Dame, Penn State and Duke.

Over 20,000 new laws were passed in the United States last year. There seems to be ample allowance for breakage.

Hercules Win, 6-3, Over Central

Action on Contract Provides Interesting Questions on Law

An action on contract which was taken up for trial Monday in Supreme Court presented several very interesting questions of law. The action brought by the Simmons Manufacturing Co. of Ohio against Charles Diamond was tried before Justice Russell without a jury and at the conclusion of the testimony decision was reserved. Joseph M. Campbell appeared for plaintiff and Abram Miner for the defendant.

The action arises out of a transaction which took place in 1934 and involves a bill of goods sold to the Hudson Auto Parts Co. The Ohio corporation received an order for goods from the Hudson Auto Parts Co. of Hudson, but having at that time no credit standing with the Simmons Company its credit manager asked for some guarantee of payment.

Several communications offered in evidence indicated that when the matter of credit was brought up one of the officers of the corporation, Mr. Diamond, wrote the Simmons Company and stated that if the bill of goods would be shipped out immediately the officers, including himself, would sign personal notes to cover the amount of the bill. This apparently was satisfactory to the company and the merchandise was shipped.

Failed To Make Notes.

The plaintiff company, however, failed to have the notes signed by the officers of the Hudson Company and it is disputed whether the notes were ever submitted for signatures.

Plaintiff alleged the notes were sent out for signature. To complicate matters the Hudson Company went into bankruptcy shortly after the transaction and the Simmons Company failed to be paid. The action in Supreme Court is to compel the payment of the bill by Mr. Diamond whom the plaintiff claims is the man who agreed to sign notes together with other officers of the company. Plaintiff's communications were all with Mr. Diamond and they sought to hold him individually for the bill since they allege he pledges himself to pay although the notes which he agreed to sign and have other officers sign were never signed.

"Knowledge" of Bankruptcy.

The Simmons Company allege that the notes were not sent to the company at the time for signature because of the knowledge that bankruptcy was in the picture and an assignment for benefit of creditors had been made. The other officers of the corporation with whom the Simmons Company had no communications directly are not being sued.

Letters offered in evidence bore the signature of "Hudson Auto Parts Company per C. D." and it was these letters in which Mr. Diamond agreed to have the officers of the company sign personal notes.

Justice's Attitude.

Justice Russell intimated that he would like to see the plaintiff's bill paid, since they had supplied the merchandise and received no pay, but he asked that law be submitted by plaintiff to show that Mr. Diamond, one officer of a corporation, could be held personally liable for a promise to pay individually which had been made over the signature of a corporation as was the case here. He asked that briefs be submitted and that it be shown that under the law an individual could be held responsible for a debt contracted by a corporation in the manner in which the present action arose.

Original Letters.

During the trial plaintiff asked defendant to produce certain original letters in an effort to show through the chain of letters that Diamond agreed personally to pay the bill, but the defendant denied that the request to produce letters had applied to the letters in question and they were not in court. Plaintiff offered carbon copies but defendant pleaded that perhaps the original letters had never been received by the defendant corporation. Justice Russell said he would give the defendant an opporunity to go to Hudson and look for the originals, and if not found would allow the copies in evidence.

During the discussion Justice Russell recessed court to permit the attorneys to look up any cases which might shed light on the question of an individual assuming liability for a corporation debt and later, after completion of proof reserved decision pending the submission of briefs.

Police Searched For Missing Man

Up until noon today the police department had received no word that David George, 50, of 47 Merilina avenue, who had been reported missing last evening, had been found. The missing man formerly resided in Hurley. Shortly after 8 o'clock Monday evening Henry Dunbar, of the Kingston High School faculty, reported that Mr. George was missing.

The police, state troopers and deputy sheriffs began a hunt for George, which was kept up until darkness fell. He was last seen about 1 o'clock that afternoon near Spring Lake on Lucas avenue extension. He generally rode a bicycle and when last seen wore a blue suit and no hat.

It was reported that Mr. George was not in the best of health, being subject to heart attacks, and it was feared he has been seized with an attack while riding his bicycle. The missing man lived in Hurley until last summer, when he removed to the Merilina avenue address.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

WATER BUBBLES SHED LIGHT.

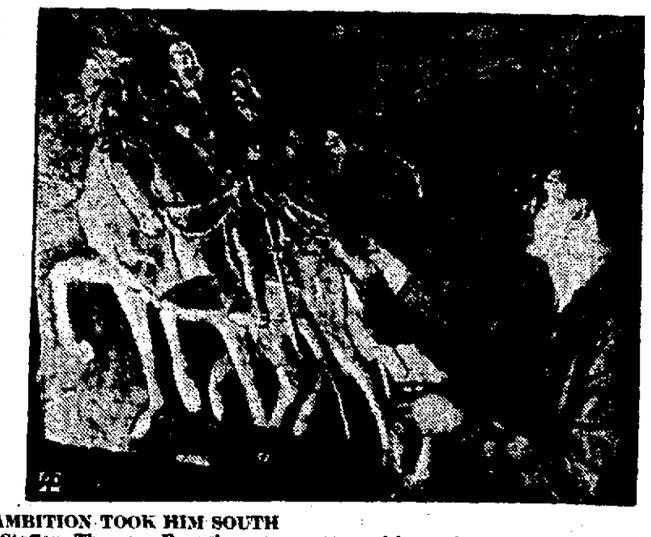
By HOWARD BLAKESLEE.
(AP) Science Editor.

Philadelphia—Bubbles in water give off light when they are caused by high-pitched sound. The light is faint and is "cold" like the glow-worm's luminecense.

But it can be photographed, proving its reality, Dr. Lesli A. Chambers of the University of Pennsylvania reports in the Journal of Chemical Physics. What causes the light he does not know. It forms on the inner surface of the bubbles.

These are not air bubbles but cavities, the result of a process called "cavitation." Similar cavities form in water from the churning action of steamship propellers. When these cavities collapse they pit the metal and are one cause of propellers wearing out.

Bavarian May Finish A Memorial To Dixie



AMBITION TOOK HIM SOUTH
Steffen Thomas, Bavarian stonecutter with a "burning ambition" to finish carving a tribute to the confederate's heroes in the face of a mountain near Atlanta, works on a model for the project.

By WILLIAM H. BORING
(AP) Feature Service Writer

Atlanta, Ga.—A youthful Bavarian stonecutter is pushing a one-man drive for completion of the South's unfinished memorial to the confederacy on the scarp of Stone mountain.

He is Steffen Thomas, who says he came to the United States nine years ago with a "burning ambition" to see the gigantic project finished.

Would Honor Women, Too

He has evolved a plan, he says, not only for completing the Stone mountain memorial, but for carving a companion monument to women of the confederacy atop Kennesaw mountain, 20 miles distant.

The Kennesaw monument would be a single figure in granite or bronze, from 40 to 75 feet in height, and could be seen from Stone mountain.

Thomas is working on models for the projects and estimates it would take approximately $100,000 and three years to complete the Stone mountain work. Wealthy and influential southerners, he says, have assured him financial backing.

Two Quit Before

Two of the nation's most eminent sculptors—Gutzon Borglum and the late Augustus Lukeman—tackled the work of hacking the features of Robert E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson and Jefferson Davis.

Borglum had carved a gigantic head of Lee when he was dismissed because of a disagreement. He destroyed his models. Lukeman was chosen to succeed him. He quit in 1928 because of a lack of funds, leaving an unfinished figure of Lee to show for his and Borglum's efforts.

Thomas says he would take up where Lukeman left off, "working in my own ideas as I see it."
